TREATIES SIGNED; ARMS CONGRESS ENDS Cardinal Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, Is Elected Pope

NEW PONTIFF, ITALIAN, TAKES NAME 'PIUS XI' ON ELEVATION

Announcement of Election of Successor to Benedict
XV Made With Traditional Ceremonies and Acceptance of the "Fisherman's Ring."

DECISION MADE AT 11:33 THIS MORNING

First Papal Benediction Is Bestowed Upon Waiting Throng and New Head of Church Takes Up Abode
in Vatican.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 6.—Cardinal Achille Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, an Italian, was proclaimed Pope in succession to the late Benedict XV this morning. He has taken the name of Pius XI.

The thousands waiting in front of St. Peter's for the wisp of smoke which would tell of the election of a new Pope or the failure of the Sacred College to reach a decision gave a mighty shout at 11:33 o'clock when a thin wisp of smoke came from the chimney leading from the Sistine Chapel. It was known that the Catholic Church had once more a duly elected pontiff.

Pontiffate Accepted.
As soon as the two-thirds vote for Cardinal Ratti had been verified, Cardinal Vannutelli, as dean of the Sacred College, arose and proceeded to the throne of the chosen one, accompanied on either side by Cardinals Logue and Bilelet, respectively, deans of the Cardinal priests and the Cardinal deacons. He was asked in Latin by Cardinal Vannutelli, as was the custom, if he accepted the election to the supreme pontificate, and the new Pope answered with the formula:

"Since it is the will of God, I must obey."
Then the purple canopies over the throne of the Cardinals were let down one by one until only that of the new pontiff remained. This was done to show that the whole Sacred College rendered obedience to the new head of the church. Dean Vannutelli thereupon asked the new incumbent what name he chose to take during his pontificate, and upon his reply "Pius XI," Mgr. Sincero, secretary of the conclave, verified his election to the papal chair.

The new Pope was then escorted to the anteroom within the Sistine Chapel where he discarded his Cardinal's robes, assisted by the cardinals, and the papal vestments, which had been held in readiness since the opening of the conclave, were placed upon him. These included the white cassock, white sash, white stockings, red slippers, a red and gold mozzetta, and finally the stole of red, worked with gold.

The pontiff, fully vested with the papal garb and accompanied by his Cardinals, thereupon returned to the throne he has occupied in the Sistine Chapel.

Bestows His Benediction.
There the Cardinals, according to their rank and headed by Vannutelli, made their first act of adoration to his holiness, kissing first his feet and then his hands, after which the Pope received them in embrace and bestowed upon them his first apostolic benediction.

Meanwhile the dean of the Cardinal Deacons, Bilelet, followed by several Cardinals, repaired to the central balcony of St. Peter's, from which the elections of scores of Popes have been officially proclaimed to

OWNER UNDER WRECKED CAR SELLS IT TO A BYSTANDER

"I'd Give $15 for It," Says Spectator; "Sold," Answers Voice.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—A new automobile plunged off an Edgecombe avenue cliff yesterday and landed 70 feet below, a wreck. Around it gathered a crowd.

"I'd give $15 for her as she is," remarked a bystander.
"Sold," said a voice, and Edward Jackson, who bought the car yesterday for $600 crawled from beneath its twisted remains.

Young Jackson's father was learning to drive and in attempting to avert a collision with a taxicab, put his foot on the accelerator instead of the brake.

Neither was badly hurt. The elder Jackson was arrested for driving without a license.

GOV. HYDE ORDERS BARRETT TO OPEN HACKMANN INQUIRY

Instructs Attorney General to Investigate Charges Against Auditor and Take Proper Action.

DENIES ATTEMPTS AT PARTY PRESSURE

Asserts No Influence Has Been Brought to Bear—
"Damn the Politics," Barrett.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 6.—The first steps in continuing as an official investigation, through grand jury inquiry and civil proceedings, the private investigation of the office of State Auditor George E. Hackmann, which Gov. Hyde has had under way for several weeks, were taken by the Governor this morning. He formally instructed Attorney-General Barrett to proceed against Hackmann, and sent to the Attorney-General all information in his possession.

The Governor and the Attorney-General conferred at the executive mansion for several hours last night, after which both said the inquiry would proceed, and such actions, criminal or civil, as the result of the inquiry made advisable, would be taken.

The officials said that no matter what political influence might be brought to bear, there would be no stopping the investigation. The Governor's letter to the Attorney-General follows:

"Under and by virtue of the provisions of Section 693, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1919, I hereby direct you to investigate fully the charges against State Auditor George E. Hackmann, and to take such action of whatever nature as your investigations may show to be proper. I am herewith transmitting all the information in my possession."

The information sent by the Governor included a detailed report from C. E. de Hart, formerly an examiner in Hackmann's office, who was employed as an investigator of Hackmann by the Governor.

Expense Accounts Specified.
Accompanying Mr. Hart's report were certified copies of many expense accounts submitted by Hackmann's examiners to County Courts of counties audited by Hackmann's men, and showing charges for stenographic work, which the Governor alleged were illegally collected.

Virtually all the information transmitted by the Governor was detailed in the publication in the Sunday Post-Dispatch of the progress of the Governor's preliminary inquiry.

The section of the statutes by which the Governor referred in his letter to the Attorney-General requires the Attorney-General, on instructions from the executive, to act with the Prosecuting Attorney of any county before the grand jury and in the courts in any matter the Governor may desire.

Reports were in circulation in Jefferson City yesterday that political pressure would be brought to bear to stop the inquiry, many Republican politicians holding that it means party disruptions.

Hackmann said today he would insist that the inquiry be made.

"It certainly is due me," Hackmann said, "that the Governor and the Attorney-General proceed promptly in this matter, and if they do not I shall insist that they do. The Governor has publicly made charges against me and I am entitled to it."

The Governor said he had not received a telephone call either criticizing his action or asking him to stop the investigation.

Calls Appeals Unusual.
"There will be no such calls," the Governor said, "because they would be useless, and the only persons who might be inclined to send such communications to me know from past experiences that their advice alone

34 BRITISH POLICE KILLED BY INDIAN MOB OF 2000 IN ATTACK ON GARRISON

Bodies of Victims Burned After Entire Staff at Chauri-Chauri Dies in Fight With Nationalists and Volunteers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A mob of 2000 Indian nationalists, volunteers and villagers attacked the police offices at Chauri-Chauri on Feb. 4 and killed the entire staff of officers, the watchman and eight armed police, who were sent as reinforcements, says a telegram received by the India office here today from the British Commissioner at Gorakhpur in the northeast section of the United Provinces.

The police offices were burned and the bodies of those killed were stripped and burned, says the telegram. Two of the volunteers were killed and several wounded.

Chauri-Chauri is 15 miles southwest of Gorakhpur, on the Bengal Northwestern Railway. The district office here today from the British Commissioner at Gorakhpur in the northeast section of the United Provinces.

Twenty-five firemen, including Chief Panzer and three lieutenants, were overcome by smoke this afternoon, while fighting a stubborn fire in the strand room of the Broderick & Bascom Rope Co. factory at 4500 North Main street. The damage to machinery in the plant was estimated at $10,000.

At 2 p. m. the firemen were still working to confine the fire to the strand department, and the fire was not considered as being under full control, though it was discovered at 7:25 a. m.

Chief Panzer, after being overcome by smoke, recovered and insisted on resuming work. Lieut. Morris Conners, H. Lyons and Louis Schapenbauer were overcome, as were Capt. J. Kelley, Driver Edward Burkner and 16 or 18 pipemen, some of whom recovered within a short time, while others were taken to their homes or to drug stores.

Chief Panzer later was induced by a physician to go home and was taken there in an automobile. The fire was out at 3 p. m.

Ten companies were at the fire, and 20 lines of hose were in use. The fire originated under the flooring of the strand room, where wire rope is made.

The first firemen arriving found it hard to get at the fire, as big holes had to be chopped in the floor. A second alarm was sent in.

Before noon District Fire Chief Louis Joerdner and Pipemen A. Schorp and R. McCormack had to abandon their work on account of injuries. Joerdner stepped upon a nail which penetrated into his foot. The two pipemen were burned about the face and arms by exploding gas.

Firemen kept the blaze confined to the strand room, except for a brief interval when it communicated with another section of the building. The machinery was damaged by falling into the holes made in the flooring by the firemen. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Ten of the men overcome were taken to the city hospital and five to St. John's Hospital. None was believed to be seriously affected.

and extremely fanatical. The railway was cut, but has since been restored.

Thirty-four Reported Killed.
The India Office communique describing the event characterized the situation as very serious. A subsequent message gave the number of police officials killed as 17, two sub-inspectors of police and 15 constables.

Another outbreak occurred Feb. 4, at Bareilly, where 5000 volunteers formed a procession but were dispersed. The crowd rallied at the town hall, and the police seized the local Congress office and tore down and burned the flags. Later the crowd attempted to seize the town hall. The police force was insufficient and the district Magistrate ordered them to fire. Two persons were killed.

REED'S CANDIDACY
NO LONGER DOUBTED

Wise Ones Convinced When Senator Fox-Trotted With Stout Ladies at 2:30 A. M.

By the Associated Press.
REED'S recent announcement that he was undecided whether to become a candidate in the August primary for the nomination to succeed himself in the Senate, certain interesting events of a social nature in the small hours of yesterday morning have convinced keen political observers that, unless all signs of the political zodiac fail, Reed's hat is already in the ring.

The Senator, visibly fatigued after a strenuous day of conferences, attended the testimonial dinner Saturday night at Hotel Statler to retiring Collector of Internal Revenue George H. Moore; was bored by six hours of speechmaking, and then wound up the affair with his own talk, which conceivably bored some people, too, but this is not a report of the speech.

It was after midnight when Senator Reed retired to his room at Hotel Jefferson, but he was there only a few moments when he was called upon by Bennett Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, and William H. Woodward, former Assistant United States Attorney, to attend the silver jubilee of Internal Revenue Collector, at Holy Angels' School Hall, St. Ange avenue and La Salle street, where about 200 men, women and children had assembled.

Did the Senator plead weariness and the need for repose? He did not. He hastened to the Gulon jubilee, reaching the hall between 1 and 2 a. m. He was hailed with acclaim by the friends of Gulon and made an impromptu address of felicitation for all present, and then joined heartily in the festivities. He shook hands warmly with the fathers, beamed upon the mothers, bestowed endearments upon babies in arms and bounced the children on his knees and romped with them.

But the thing that convinced politicians that Reed would fight to hold his seat in the Senate was the fact that he fox-trotted with several stout ladies, and was going strong at this at 2:30 a. m.

5 OIL WELLS BROUGHT IN ON FARM PURCHASED FOR $10

By the Associated Press.
FRANKLIN, Ky., Feb. 6.—James Arthur Poteet, farm hand, whose $1 a day income recently was swelled to one of $51 when five oil wells were brought in on his farm near here, has retired.

With the wealth pouring in from his 64-acre farm, for which he purchased several years ago for a total of $18, Poteet has set out to spend part of it. He has just finished building a home, erected by his own hands at the cost of $250. The long-harbored desire of Mrs. Poteet for a sewing machine has been gratified and Poteet himself has spent $6 for a year's subscription to an oil magazine for his own enjoyment.

WOMAN FILES SUIT AGAINST GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI

Former Employee in Lee M.
Russell's Office Asks
$100,000 for Alleged Misconduct.

DEFENDANT CALLS
CHARGES "ALL LIES"

Complainant Declares Reputation and Health Ruined
as Result of Chief Executive's Alleged Actions.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 6.—A $100,000 damage suit, charging Gov. Lee M. Russell of Mississippi with seducing Miss Frances C. Birkhead, a former employee of his office, was filed against the chief executive this morning in the United States District Court here.

The plaintiff, now a resident of New Orleans, in her bill of particulars, filed by Attorney Tom Foster of Vicksburg, Miss., declared that her reputation, character and health were ruined as a result of Gov. Russell's alleged misconduct. The bill is asking for two counts, each asking $50,000 award from the Court.

Girl Alleges Governor Promised to Marry Her.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—Miss Frances C. Birkhead of New Orleans, who charges the chief executive of Mississippi with seduction under promise of marriage, bases count number one of the bill of particulars upon seduction only. After briefly narrating how she came under the "predominant influence" of the defendant at a time when he was a candidate for Governor and how she was persuaded to "yield to his will," the bill adds:

"That, as a result of the said abduction, plaintiff's reputation and character were ruined, and she was caused to lose her employment; her health was ruined to her great damage in the sum of $50,000."

Count number two has as its basis an operation, which, it alleges, was performed at the instigation of Gov. Russell. "As a result of said operation," the complaint reads, "plaintiff's health was totally wrecked and ruined. She suffered untold pain and anguish, and she is now an invalid, and will be such the remaining part of her life."

Miss Birkhead declares in a sworn statement she started work in June, 1918, in the draft department of the Adjutant-General's office in Jackson, and that it was there she first met the defendant, at that time Lieutenant-Governor of the State. Later, she says, he persuaded her to accept employment in his office as stenographer and that soon after she accepted such employment he began to talk amorously.

"He told me that he had been married for several years, that his wife had no children, that he was not happy with her and that he was then trying to get a divorce," Miss Birkhead says in her statement. "He assured me that as soon as he could get his divorce he would marry me."

Miss Birkhead, being, she says, "innocent, unsophisticated and totally lacking in worldly wisdom," began to fall in love with Russell. The alleged betrayal is given as the immediate sequel.

Russell Calls Suit Plot to Blacken Character.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 6.—"I have frequently heard of a scheme to bring a suit of this character against me," Gov. Lee M. Russell of Mississippi declared to a reporter of the New Orleans Item staff, last week, when asked about a report that a damage suit charging seduction was to be brought against him.

"The charges that are made in that connection are a damnable lie and an attempt by my enemies to blacken my character," the Governor continued.

Since the filing of the suit today, no statement has been made by Gov. Russell.

FAREWELL ADDRESS MADE TO DELEGATES BY PRESIDENT HARDING

Executive Expresses Belief "Naval Holiday" Will Be Extended Beyond Treaty Limit.

"INDICTMENTS OF NATIONAL DISHONOR ARE DRAWN"

"If the Faith Is Kept, It Will Mark Better Epoch
in Human Progress," Says Executive—Last Meeting Marked by Applause and Activity of Camera.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The history-making conference on the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions came to its end today with the signing of treaties and a farewell address by President Harding. The sine die adjournment was taken at 11:13 o'clock.

With its work characterized by the President as "the first deliberate and effective expression of great Power, in the consciousness of peace, of war's utter futility," the great conference went to its niche of history to await the judgments and developments of the future.

In the great assembly hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution, where all the open sessions have been held, the delegates of the nine nations assembled marched in turn to a space at the great table and affixed their signatures to the treaties and agreements which are all parts of the structure built to lift from a war-world the burden of excessive naval armaments, to promote the peace of the Pacific, to give a new bill of rights to China and to remove from the Far East particularly the clouds of war.

And as delegates affixed signatures as plenipotentiaries pledging the honor of their respective nations to the good faith of the settlements agreed upon, the great crowd gathered expressed the hopes of the world in its loud and prolonged applause.

At the conclusion of the ceremony of signing, President Harding delivered his address, formally closing the conference as he formally had opened it a little more than 12 weeks ago.

Applause Hails President.
The President, as he read slowly from his manuscript, frequently was hailed by bursts of applause.

There was long applause when President Harding addressed to say: "While the settlement of the Far Eastern question was not of direct import to the United States, we rejoice in common with the world that understanding has been reached."

As the President named the American delegates and thanked them for their services to the nation, there was applause at the mention of each delegate's name. There was more applause when the President thanked the Advisory Committee for its services.

At the conclusion of the President's address the entire party stood and applauded while the executive took his seat.

As the applause died away the Rev. Abernathy stepped forward and pronounced the benediction.

"May it be in the heart of every nation and every man," he implored, "to hasten the bringing of the era of good will."

The prayer ended, Secretary Hughes tapped with his gavel and announced: "The conference is adjourned sine die."

Balfour Is Applauded.
The final session brought out the largest crowd of the conference. Scores sat in the aisles and stood around the wall. Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Gillett and other wives of officials had seats in the boxes. As the prominent delegates arrived

JAPAN MAY BE FIRST TO RATIFY NAVAL TREATY, IN OPINION OF YAMANISHI

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—EARLY Japanese ratification of the limitation treaty adopted by the Washington conference is predicted by Rear Admiral K. Yamanishi of the Imperial Japanese Navy, who arrived in San Francisco yesterday, on his way back to Japan from Washington.

"I would not be surprised to see Japan the first of all nations to ratify the treaty," he said.

The session was called to order at 10:02 o'clock, with a prayer by the Rev. W. E. Abernathy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, which President Harding attended.

The session was called to order at 10:02 o'clock, with a prayer by the Rev. W. E. Abernathy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, which President Harding attended.

Amid applause, Secretary Hughes announced that the Shantung treaty between Japan and China had been signed Saturday.

"The treaties will now be signed," announced Secretary Hughes, and the American delegates filed around to the foot of the big green-topped table of the secretary-general's desk inside the inclosure and began signing. Secretary Hughes completed his signature at 10:12 o'clock. The signing was in this order:

The United States, Belgium, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, China and Portugal.

Signing of the Treaties.
To save time the red wax seals had been affixed previously and conference attaches standing at the elbows of the delegates pointed where each was to write his name. Baron De Cartier, the only Belgian delegate, took his place as Elthru Root arose from the table. He had two treaties to sign, the general Far Eastern and the Chinese tariff.

The seven British delegates, headed by Balfour, signed next. They affixed their signatures to all five of the documents. Balfour signed at 10:22 o'clock.

There was prolonged applause as the seven delegates marched around to the signing place. While the British delegation was signing, motion picture photographs were taken.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS AND ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE ARMS CONFERENCE

Six Treaties Completed; Two Agreed to in Substance; 14 Resolutions and 10 Declarations on List.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Six completed treaties, two others agreed to in substance, 14 resolutions and 10 separate or joint declarations of national policy comprise the formal and tangible contribution of the arms conference negotiations to history.

By the major agreements of the conference, the great Powers put a limit on their naval strength in capital ships, abjure submarine warfare against commerce and use of poison gas, give China a new bill of rights based on territorial integrity and the open door, and set up a new international concord to preserve peace in the Pacific.

In addition, Great Britain declares her intention to restore Wei-Hai-Wei to China, and Japan hands back Shantung and promises to withdraw from Siberia as soon as conditions there are stabilized.

These are the six treaties which during the 12 weeks of negotiations have been brought to final completion.

1. Naval limitation treaty, by which the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy agree to scrap or convert 43 capital ships and so limit future construction that, after a 10-year building holiday, their first-line naval strength will remain at $25,000 tons, $25,000 tons, $15,000 tons, $15,000 tons and $15,000 tons, respectively. The respective tonnage of airplane carriers is limited to 13,000 tons each for the United States and Great Britain, 11,000 tons for Japan, 10,000 tons each for France and Italy. Individual capital ships are to be no larger than 25,000 tons and carry no guns in excess of 16 inches.

2. Limit on Aircraft Carriers.

Aircraft carriers are limited similarly to 10,000, and neither can carry a gun larger than eight inches. A fortification "status quo" is set up in the Pacific under which the United States agrees not to fortify further the Philippines and Guam and Japan agrees to observe the same restriction in Formosa, the Bonins and the Pescadores.

3. Submarine and poison gas treaty, to which the same five Powers are signatories. By its terms the Powers agree to observe the same rule to use submarines "as commerce destroyers." In all cases to observe the rules of visit and search and to regard as a pirate any submarine who violates existing law, and to themselves, they outlaw use of poison gas altogether.

4. The four-Power Pacific treaty, by which the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan agree to respect one another's rights in relation to their insular possessions in the Pacific and to meet in consultation whenever any of them are threatened. The Anglo-Japanese alliance is automatically abrogated when the new treaty finally is ratified.

5. The general Far Eastern treaty, between the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal and The Netherlands, binding each of them to respect China's integrity. The open door policy is to be applied in detail and every opportunity is to be given the Chinese people to develop a stable Government.

It is agreed that no treaty infringing these principles is to be concluded, that no contracts violating them are to be upheld, the discriminatory practices in the Chinese railways are to end and that China's rights as a neutral are to be respected in future wars.

6. Chinese Tariff Treaty.

The Chinese tariff treaty, adhered to by the same nine nations, providing international machinery for an immediate revision of Chinese customs duties on a basis of 5 per cent, effective and periodical revision thereafter, together with changes which will permit imposition of surtaxes.

7. The Shantung treaty, between Japan and China, by which Shantung is restored to Chinese control. By one of the uncompleted treaties agreed to in substance during the conference, Japan gives the United States the long-sought cable and wireless privileges on the Island of Yap, and by the other the five principal Powers and The Netherlands allocate the former German-owned cables in the Pacific so that one goes to the United States, one to Japan and one to The Netherlands.

Fourteen Resolutions.

Briefly, the 14 resolutions given conference approval embody the following decisions:

Agreement for withdrawal of for-

WILSON LAID LINES FOR THE NAVAL TREATY

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—

JOSEPHUS DANIELS said

yesterday that the disarmament

conference is a long

step toward world peace and will save American taxpayers $200-

600,000. The former Secretary of the Navy, who is at the Hotel

Astor, pointed out that the Wilson administration, in the bill

authorizing the building of ships

that are now to be scrapped, had included a clause providing that these ships were not to be completed if an agreement could be reached with other nations such as the one now realized.

"The action the other day,"

Mr. Daniels added, "was foreseen by Mr. Wilson and his advisers, and they will now carry out a policy which we advanced in 1918. At that time, during the war, it was impossible to have a conference with other nations."

Establishment of an international judicial system with a view to the solution of international rights.

Authorization for a consultation

between foreign diplomats and Chi-

China.

Relinquishment to China of unauthorized foreign radio stations on

Chinese soil, with the stipulation that all plants are to be used for official

ing all international commitments

that affect China.

Creation of a board of reference to open door and railway provisions of the general Far Eastern treaty.

New Agreements of Warfare.

Convening of a special commission of the five Powers to meet in the near future and consider rules to govern

the use of new agencies of warfare.

By a second resolution on the same subject it is declared that the commission shall not "review or report

upon" the submarine and poison gas

rules laid down in the treaty on the subject.

Recommendation that "better protection" be given the Chinese road. Expression of hope that the Chinese Government will develop toward a unified system under Chi-

Request on the part of the other

Powers that China reduce her mili-

naval limitation treaty, declaring the nations "in honor bound" not to dispose of ships which are listed for scrapping before the treaty is ratified.

Supplementary agreement to the four-Power Pacific treaty excluding

the islands of Japanese homeland

from the treaty provisions.

Declarations Made.

Of the "declarations" made by the various delegations and formally spread on the record are the following: Chief interest attached to the questions relating to Siberia and the

"21 demands."

Regarding Siberia, Japan dis-

avowed any territorial designs on

Russia and pledged herself to withdraw her troops from Siberia as soon as stable conditions warrant.

While the United States reiterated its hope that the withdrawal would not be long delayed, the famous

"group five" of the "21 demands"

was abandoned by Japan, along with other concessions relating to economic and political conditions in Manchuria and Mongolia. China

filed a protest against the remaining portions of the "demands," and the United States reiterated its intention not to recognize any of them

which might abridge American rights.

The British declaration of readiness to withdraw from the leased territory of Wei-Hai-Wei was not elaborated, but will be taken up in diplomatic exchanges between Lon-

President Harding arrived while the signing was in progress.

President Praises

Conference for Work

The address by President Harding

at the concluding session of the arms

conference here today follows:

Mr. Chairman and members of the conference: Nearly three months ago it was my privilege to utter to you sincerest words of welcome to the capital of our republic, to suggest the spirit in which you were inited and to intimate the atmosphere in which you were asked to confer. In a very general way, perhaps, I ventured to express a hope that the things toward which our as-

"Today it is my greater privilege and even greater pleasure, to come to make acknowledgment. It is now, as it was then, the fortune of life to contemplate a worth-while achievement.

"It cannot be other than seemly

for me, as the only chief of Government, to acknowledge the success of the conference, to address the conference, to offer congratulations and to offer the thanks of our nation, our people,

perhaps I dare venture to utter them, for the world. My own gratitude is beyond my capacity to express.

Calls Achievement Great.

"The conference has wrought a truly great achievement. It is an achievement sometimes to speak in superlatives, and I will be restrained.

But I will say with every confidence

that the things toward which our aspirations led us, have been achieved.

"The things toward which our as-

SEARCH MADE FOR JEALOUS SUITOR OF MOVIE ACTRESS

Prominent Young New York Man Latest to Come Under Investigation in Taylor Murder.

PINK NIGHT ROBE
SAID TO BE MISSING

Drug Peddler Sought; Hint
Given Initials of Woman Are Concerned With These Developments.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.— Basing their theory upon reported jealousy, police and private detectives, according to their statement
today, have directed search for a prominent young New York man, formerly engaged to one of the beautiful stars of filmdom, in connection with the mysterious killing last Wednesday night of William Desmond Taylor, noted motion picture director.

Left Day After Death.
This mystery suspect was reported today to have checked out of a hotel here on the day of the killing and left the city the following afternoon. He is believed by investigators to have headed for San Diego and possibly crossed the border into Mexico. His name is withheld by the police.

The actress to whom this man was at one time engaged, according to investigators, was a close friend of the slain director, and in this friendship, investigators say, they see a possible motive of jealousy.
Letters written by Mabel Normand to Taylor, reported missing following his death, add considerable interest to the case.

The great list of names of actresses and actors as well as managers and employees being questioned
by the police begins to read like a list of those present at a great movie ball.

The early hours today found Deputy Sheriff, municipal detectives and officials of the motion picture company by which Taylor was employed, gathered in the dead director's apartment, again sifting over his letters and documents seeking an elusive something, overlooked before, that might set them straight
upon the trail of his slayer.

This comparative setback followed a day and night of unusual activities in search for a solution to the enigma which has now entered upon its fifth day. Sunday night the word went forth that an unnamed motion picture actor had been taken to the county jail for questioning as a "suspect" and that he had been hustled from the motion picture lot where he was at work with such speed that he had not the time to remove the makeup from his face.

At the same time, two other motion picture employees, one a camera man,
also were taken to jail as possible
material witnesses.

Distinctly Painted Car.
These actions resulted from a report that the actor's automobile, a distinctly constructed and painted machine, had been seen near the Taylor apartments the day of the murder.

The actor was questioned for two hours and then, still unable, it was stated, to tell definitely where he was at the time Taylor was killed,
was hurried to the dead man's apartment for a re-enactment of the crime as the officers had reconstructed it.

The persons who previously had given statements that they had seen a man skulking about the Taylor home the night he was killed were unable to identify the actor as that man. He was released, but with instructions to keep in touch with the officers. The men taken as possible material witnesses also were given freedom again. The officers said the actor had admitted owned ship of the automobile in question.

Story of Missing Linen.
While these matters were developing tales came to the police of the alleged possession by Taylor of women's linen, including one piece of which, a pink night robe, was reported missing from his apartment since his body was discovered. One witness was said to have stated, but not to the police, that this particular robe bore the embroidered initials of a motion picture actress.

Close upon the heels of these declarations came the report that the police were searching for a drug peddler, who, it was hinted, had sought through Taylor to make delivery of drugs to an actress, who found it difficult to make her purchase direct. The initials of the actress connected with this phase of the case were said to be the same as those of the night robe missing from the Taylor apartments.

Movie Mystery.
The story of Henry Peavey, negro houseman, that Taylor had kept in his apartments a woman's pink night robe, received support from the police. They stated that Earl Tiffany, formerly a chauffeur for Taylor, had given them information of a similar nature.

Tiffany was said to have told the police that Edward F. Sands, Taylor's former butler, told him of the butler had spied upon Taylor and thus had found in his apartments a large number of pieces of silk underwear unknown in a man's wardrobe.

According to Tiffany's story to the police, Sands said his curiosity was aroused so he folded the garments in a "trick manner," and noted the way they were folded the next day.
Another angle was the story told
by an associate of the dead director that a former employee had been heard to exclaim, when he heard of the slaying: "Bill Taylor got only what he deserved."

The investigation showed, the police stated, that this man had been employed by the Famous Players-Lasky concern, working under Taylor
in a minor capacity. One day
he was drunk when he went on duty, according to this story. Taylor ordered him removed from the place.
The next day the man returned, only to find an order from Taylor that he should not be admitted. The police said they had begun a search for him, but with little hope of important results, as the affair seemed too trivial.

Searching for Sands.
The search for Sands, missing butler, continues. Checking of the various angles of the case among members of the motion picture colony
and other friends and acquaintances
of Taylor almost invariably has resulted in some development in which Sands' name was mentioned, according to detectives. The police said they had had several clues to Sands, whereabouts, but these had resulted in disappointments.

Peavey, the valet, who found his employer's body, visited police headquarters again yesterday, and was questioned by detectives for a half hour. It is understood he was asked for more detailed information concerning the arrangement of Taylor's furniture and other belongings in the apartments where he was shot.

Miss Normand's Letters.
The whereabouts of letters which Miss Mabel Normand, motion picture actress, said she had written to Taylor and which she said were missing, again has become a matter of interest. It is believed that these letters and other papers could have been removed after Taylor's body was found last Thursday morning some time during the period when the house was unguarded while it was believed he had died of natural causes. Miss Normand first called attention to the absence of the letters, which she said she had seen in the apartments a few days before the murder. She said she would be willing to have published anything they contained.

Search through the director's belongings has brought forth messages
and notes from many film actresses, including Blanche Sweet and Gloria Swanson.

Motive for the Crime.
Revenge prompted by jealousy,
remains apparently the most probable motive for the alleged crime,
investigators of the various departments generally agree. The possibility that the slayer was a frustrated blackmailer also is being considered.
There is declared further to be a mere chance that he was a burglar, surprised by Taylor, who fled after the shooting without attempting to remove any valuables. Captain of Detectives David P. Adams, who is directing the police investigation, says everything in the case indicates that the slayer was a man.

Whether the fact that Taylor had changed his name from that of William Cunningham Deane-Tanner, by which he was known in New York 14 years ago, has any bearing upon
the case has not been determined,
according to the police. This circumstance seems to have no bearing upon the principal angles of the mystery, which have been under investigation, it is stated.

Investigators express themselves
as at a loss to account for the disappearance of Miss Normand's letters. They declare, however, that they do not believe the letters themselves would throw any light on the case. The "main issue," so far, one investigator says, is the whereabouts of the missing valet, Butler Sands,
for a few days before the shooting.

Detained in Box or Barrel.
A story which the police said
might throw some light on what seemed to be "the complicated past"
of Taylor was told yesterday by Len Sledge, a Spanish-American war veteran, who lives at the National Soldiers' Home at Savelle, near here.

"In the fall of 1928," said Sledge,
"I was in Lewiston, Idaho. One day an acquaintance pointed out to me a picturesque figure in a frock coat
and top hat, and wearing long hair.
"That's Bill Taylor," said my acquaintance. "He came here recently from Alaska, where he was either United States Marshal or a Deputy.
He had some trouble in Alaska and got out by concealing himself in a box or a barrel and getting aboard ship undiscovered."
I learned Taylor had opened a small show in Lewiston. I am sure from pictures I have seen of Taylor
that he was the man I saw in Lewiston."

Tending to show the alleged feeling of Taylor toward Peavey, Sledge,
his former butler, whom the director had charged with a felony, was a further statement today by Henry Peavey, Taylor's negro houseman.
"Not long ago," said Peavey, "I was showing Mr. Taylor a coat I had bought. That looks like one Sands brought from me," he said. "Oh, it could only get my hands on that fellow."

In Uniform of British Officer.
Taylor's body, dressed in the uniform of a British officer he wore in his service during the World War,
was viewed yesterday by many friends and others at an undertaking establishment where it will be until the funeral services Tuesday at St. Paul's Episcopal Pro-Cathedral.
Many flowers were sent there, to await transfer, after the services, to the cemetery vault where the body will be held until the arrival of the director's daughter, Ethel Dais Taylor, who has been in school at Mar-moreneck, N. Y.

Pallbearers will be William C. de Mille, Frank Bial, George Melford,
Arthur Hoyt, James Young, Frank
Lloyd, David Hartford and Charles
M. Eytan, all widely known in motion pictures.

Members of the British Overseas
Club will attend the funeral in a body and a squad of former Canadian soldiers will fire a salute over the casket.

Eastern Producing Manager Would Break Up Actors' Colony.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Herbert Brenon, motion picture producing manager, declared last night that the actors' colony at Hollywood, Cal., should be broken up.

Discussing the Taylor murder, he said that the incident, added to recent motion picture scandals in California, had given the industry a setback from which it will be long in recovering.

"The trouble is that out in Hollywood the motion picture people are thrown upon themselves for recreation," he said.
"They live and think and talk pictures all the time. They do not lead the normal lives without side diversion we in the East do. The minority, who have made money quickly,
persons with little character and less morals, have had their heads turned and have cast aside all restraint.
These are the ones who bring discredit upon us, and the good suffer with the bad. I think it would be a jolly good thing if Hollywood were abolished. It should be scattered.
It will be as a result of the investigation which will cause sure picture directors to give it up as a segregated production center. It has a tendency to spread, to creep to those who ordinarily would not be affected by it—the small part affects the whole."

Tanners of Cork Handsome and Known for Gallantry.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Feb. 6.—Interest in the mysterious murder of William Desmond Taylor or William Deane Tanner has been aroused here because Deane Tanner is a well-known Cork family name, one member of which was Charles Deane Tanner, prominent member of the Irish Nationalist party in the House of Commons.
The head of the family was a leading surgeon of Cork. His eldest brother had a son of somewhat adventurous disposition and it is surmised this may be the victim. The Tanners were remarkably handsome family. The second brother, Dr.
Lombard Tanner, committed suicide,
leaving a curious letter in which he apologized for his brother Charles,
when the latter became a home ruler.
Gallantry was a strong point in the family character.

Taylor Once Played in Own Company in Alaska Towns.
By the Associated Press.
JUNEAU, Alaska, Feb. 6.—William Desmond Taylor, prominent motion picture director, slain at Los Angeles, played in his own stock company at Fairbanks, Skagway and other Alaska towns during the winter of 1929, according to residents here. He once was interested in mining ventures near Dawson and in the Klondike district.

Gasoline Price Increased a Cent.
Several of the largest gasoline companies increased the price of automobile gasoline at filling stations
today 1 cent a gallon, from 21.5 cents to 22.2 cents. Usually the smaller filling stations follow the price fluctuations of their larger competitors. The price was increased half a cent, to 21.2 cents, about three months ago. No explanation was given for either increase.

FISK SAYS TRAFFIC HAMPER RUNS TO FIRES

Director, After Rides on Apparatus, Declares Laws Must Be Enforced More Rigidly.

Traffic, both street car and automobile, is interfering with the Fire Department on runs, Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk said today.
"I propose to see to more rigid enforcement of the traffic laws in this respect," he added. The law is that all traffic must come to a full stop at the sound of fire apparatus gongs
or whistles and that automobiles must pull to the curb.

Director Fisk's conclusions were based upon observations during rides
on apparatus yesterday during general test runs, made in connection with the Board of Public Service investigation of the department's efficiency.

As is known, the National Board of Fire Underwriters recently issued an engineer's report criticizing the St. Louis department as inefficient, slow and undisciplined. Mayor Kiel thereupon ordered an investigation and Director of Public Utilities Hooke, President Kinney of the Board of Public Service and Director
Fisk were assigned. They were accompanied yesterday by Charles A.
Whitney, an engineer, who wrote the underwriters' criticism of the department.

Other Tests Planned.
The investigators today said that they had reached no conclusion because they expected to hold numerous other test runs, but their conversation indicated that they were pleased with several of the performances.

The first of these was at Truck Company No. 8, Twentieth street and Washington avenue. The company ran three and one-half blocks, raised its aerial ladder and all the members of the company went over the ladder's top in five minutes. A similar test of the same company made by Whitney required, he reported,
five minutes, 53 seconds.

Truck Company No. 6, at Third street and Washington avenue, made a run of one block and sent one man over the top in 52 seconds, which caused awe among the spectators.

At Eighteenth street and Clark avenue the members of the engine company were put to bed. Two directors took up their station on the second floor. In four seconds after the tap of the gong, the men were out of bed, into their clothes and down the pole to the ground floor.
The two directors started to walk down the stairs at the top of the company. Before they reached the bottom, the engine, with all its men at their places, was out of the station.

Theoretical Rescue Enacted.
A company at Eighth and Vandewater avenues was assigned the task of running one block to the West End Hotel Building, and there performing a theoretical rescue of trapped persons on a third-floor balcony. The company raised the balcony with its ladder, the investigation reported, and had some difficulty in making a fire plug connection of the plug.

Director Fisk said today that in one respect St. Louis was better equipped for fire protection than any other city in the country. He said that in all sections fire alarm boxes
were no more than two blocks apart.

Chauffeur Fined $100 for Driving into Fire Apparatus.
Arthur Bright, chauffeur of a truck for the Hill-Belmont Lumber Co., who drove into a hook and ladder apparatus responding to a fire alarm, Feb. 4 at Goodfellow avenue and Page boulevard, was fined $100 in Police Court today.
Bright admitted driving
into the fire apparatus, but said
it was accidental. Jacob Keutze,
a fireman, was injured in the collision. He is still in a hospital.

"TRANQUILLA," FORMER HOME
OF J. D. LUCAS, BURNED
"Tranquilla," a 15-room house on the estate of the late James C. Gho, at Carson and St. Charles roads, St.
Louis County, was destroyed by fire at noon last Friday. The house was built 40 years ago by Joseph D. Lucas and was originally the country home of his family. It still belongs to the Gho estate and was leased to Howard Cryder.

Mrs. Cryder had carried her 2-month-old infant from the house and was aiding volunteer firemen in carrying out household furnishings
when the roof collapsed, preventing them from saving any more property. The cause was not determined.
The house was valued at $20,000 and was insured. The fire occurred on the eighth anniversary of the death of James C. Gho, whose family occupied the house up to the time of his death.

New Pope Made a Cardinal for His Work in Poland

CARDINAL RATTI, Archbishop of Milan, was for several years Papal Nuncio in Poland, where the discharge of important ecclesiastical functions came earned for him the esteem of Benedict XV and the gratitude of Vatican authorities.
It was because of this service that the red hat was conferred upon him on June 16, 1921, when a similar honor was bestowed on Cardinal Laurenti.

Cardinal Ratti was born in Desio, Italy, on March 31, 1857. For many years he was librarian of the Ambrosian Library and archbishop of Milan. Later he became, librarian of the Vatican.
In this position he remained until the new republic of Poland established diplomatic relations with the Vatican, at which time Ratti was appointed Archbishop and was assigned to Poland as the representative of the Holy See.

That country was then torn with the estrangements from religion
brought about by the communistic propaganda from Soviet Russia and Archbishop Ratti worked to counteract the spread of radicalism. He also won the esteem of Polish Catholics
by his efforts in behalf of destitute children orphaned by the war.

Cardinal Ratti, as the Archbishop of Milan, presided over one of the most important archdioceses in Italy.
The city being a great industrial center, one of its main requirements is that the Cardinal shall possess a thorough knowledge of political and social problems. He is big physically and is reputed to have liberal tendencies.

the world, and solemnly announced
to the great crowd awaiting expectantly below.

"I announce to your great joy the election of the pontiff."
This confirmed to the throngs in St. Peter's Square the election, which had been indicated by the thin stream of white smoke which came from the metal stovepipe projecting from the roof of the Sistine Chapel, when the voters' papers of the final ballot were burned.

Returns to the Vatican.
Meanwhile Pope Pius XI, after waiting for some moments in the Clementine Hall, had left for St.
Peter's, accompanied by the members of the Sacred College. Arriving at the outside balcony, the cathedral he raised his hand and bestowed upon the multitude his first public benediction.

As he bestowed the benediction the new Pope was acclaimed by the great throng assembled there, while the troops presented arms. Shortly afterward Prince Chigi-Albani, the Marshal of the Conclave by order of the Secretary of State, issued the following:

"By his holiness, Pope Pius XI, while making every reservation in favor of the inviolable rights of the church and the Holy See, which rights he has sworn to defend, has given his first blessing from the exterior balcony overlooking the square of St. Peter's; it is his special intention that his blessing should be addressed not only to those present in the square and not only to those in Rome, and Italy, but to all nations and all peoples, and should bring to the whole world the wish and announcement of that universal pacification we all so ardently desire."

The pontiff, as he proceeded to the central balcony of St. Peter's, was preceded by a bearer holding aloft
the pontifical cross.

It was the first time since the reign of Pope Pius IX that any Pope had looked out over the great piazza
where pontifical sovereignty ends.
His holiness lifted both hands and spoke a few words, finally bestowing
the benediction.

He then returned to the Vatican,
where, although reigning, the recent Pope has preferred to remain virtually a prisoner until his death.
Reports were current last night
that a new Pope had been chosen,
but that out of deference for America the announcement would be deferred until the arrival of Cardinal
O'Connell of Boston this morning.

Cardinals with whom the Associated Press correspondent spoke before the conclave began unanimously expressed a desire an American member of the cardinalate should reach the Vatican in time to participate in the solemnities of the new pontiff.
This, they said, arose partly from the wish that the United States should be represented and also from a desire to compensate Cardinal O'Connell personally for his disappointment in 1914, when he reached Rome a few hours after Benedict was elected.

Prelates and dignitaries of the church were openly discussing last night a report that Cardinal O'Connell, before leaving America, had cabled his desire (some went even so far as to say an ultimatum) that America be represented in the conclave. It was said there were some financial matters to be arranged, and that Cardinal O'Connell bore a message to the Sacred College, delivery and discussion of which might necessitate postponement of the election announcement.

The announcement shortly after midnight that a new Pope had been elected came as a great surprise to the thousands who thronged St. Peter's Square. The surprise was particularly evident among the numerous Americans in the crowd, as the Rome newspapers and officials connected with the Vatican had convinced them that no announcement would be given out until after the arrival of Cardinal O'Connell and his entrance into the conclave.

The new Pope was one of the latest Cardinals created by the late Benedict. Only six months have passed since he succeeded Cardinal Ferrari
as Archbishop of Milan.

He has been one of the strongest supporters of Benedict's policy of reconciliation between the Quirinal and Vatican.

that line would be neither heeded
nor welcomed.

"Hackmann in a statement in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, charged that the investigation was a political plot instigated by me because he had refused to allow certain exposed facts to be published."
"That is not true. I have never sought to protect any employee of the State in any expense which was not authorized by law. The Auditor's statement is not a new line of defense in such cases. When I came into office, I came with a promise to the people of Missouri to clean up the capital. I did not say the offices controlled by Democrats
nor did I say the offices controlled by Republicans. I meant all the offices where cleaning was needed.

"When I sought to remove James T. Bradshaw, State Warehouse Commissioner, a Democrat, the cry went up from Democrats that I was inspired solely by political motives;
that I wanted to oust a Democrat
to give the job to a Republican. Although the case is still pending in the Supreme Court, I think it was

O'CONNELL ARRIVES AT ROME AN HOUR TOO LATE TO VOTE FOR NEW POPE

By the Associated Press.
CARDINAL O'CONNELL, Archbishop of Boston, arrived in Rome at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon, an hour after the new Pope had been elected. It is recalled that he did not reach Rome until after the election of Benedict XV, seven years ago.

NAPLES, Feb. 6.—Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, arrived in Naples on board the steamer President Wilson from New York at 6:20 o'clock this morning. He left immediately for Rome on a special train as a guest of the Italian Government.

The harbor authorities dispatched a launch to take the Cardinal off the steamship and facilitate his transfer to the train for Rome.

Cardinal O'Connell received a most cordial greeting from the populace and officials. All customs and passport formalities were waived. The Cardinal's train, consisting of a locomotive, day coach and baggage car, was placed at his disposal.

Cites Purchase of Land.
"Some months ago my attention was directed to conditions in the Auditor's office. The board in control of Lincoln Institute purchased a tract of land for $27,000, which was worth less than $16,000. Notwithstanding the fact that, in my direction, there was placed in all appropriation bills a provision that appropriations should not be paid out by the Auditor until specifically authorized by me, the Auditor paid out the money on the Lincoln Institute deal almost before the ink was dry on the appropriation bill and entirely without my knowledge.

"The State now has pending an action to set aside that transaction and recover the purchase price of the land for the State. Knowing the careful scrutiny of 15-cent and 20-cent items in small expense accounts and the frequency with which the auditor used the blue pencil on them, I was surprised that a $27,000 item went through in such a hurry. I afterward caused an investigation to be begun. It is on the result of that investigation so far as it has proceeded, and the details of which were published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, that I am directing the Attorney-General to proceed with a thorough investigation.

Barrett, who returned from St. Louis yesterday afternoon, also denied there was anything political in the inquiry.

"Straight Ahead," Says Barrett.
"We are going straight ahead with the investigation," Barrett said. "Damn the politics, there is not any in it. I want the facts. The Auditor violates the investigation in one breath, and denounces it as political in the next."

The Cole County grand jury before which the Governor said he would direct that the inquiry be conducted, meets early in March. It is said to be the intention of the State officials to proceed also with civil actions, to recover money which the Governor charges the Auditor has collected illegally.

"I Lost My Job"

"I owned most every kind of insurance, and was just congratulating myself that I was well protected when I lost my job. I had forgotten all about that."

"Luckily, I didn't have much trouble landing another, but it taught me a lesson. I took out a new form of insurance in an old way. When I drew my first pay, I opened a savings account and deposited a certain set sum once a month as a premium on my 'trouble insurance.'"

"I have kept this up and now I know I am fully protected. No matter what happens, I have the protection of real money."

Senator, in Address to Legion Men, Urges Defense of Liberty and Denounces Unauthoritative Search. United States Senator Reed today addressed about 300 persons at a luncheon at the Planters Hotel, given by Peers-Williams Post and Walter M. Blakely Post of the American Legion. He was introduced by Jerome Duggan, chairman of the legion's City Executive Committee.

Senator Reed spoke for about an hour. He reviewed the sacrifices of the men in the war and predicted they would eventually win the fight for adjusted compensation in the bill now before Congress. The general theme of his address was the preservation of liberty by the present generation of young men against the possibility of infringing upon the bill of rights, and while he did not denounce prohibition as it applies to suppression of the liquor traffic, he did inveigh against the invasion of homes without search warrants issued in due process of law, and pointed out that "such tyranny as this" precipitated the American Revolution. He concluded with an appeal to voters to be constantly watchful of the type of men chosen to make our laws so as to "preserve the fountain springs of liberty," pointing to the seating of United States Senator Newberry of Michigan as an example of what happens when vigilance is relaxed. He again reviewed the resolution that seated Newberry as a "document such as Old Satan himself would have written."

SENATE COMMITTEE AGREES ON 13 ADDITIONAL JUDGESHIPS

Number Reduced From 22 as Proposed in Bill; Measure Planned to Relieve Court Congestion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—An increase of 13 in the number of United States District Judges was agreed upon today by the Senate Judiciary Committee as a means of relieving the congestion in the nation's Federal courts. The new judgeships would be distributed under the committee's recommendation on the basis of one each to the following districts: Massachusetts, Eastern New York, Southern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Northern Texas, Eastern Michigan, Northern Ohio, Middle Tennessee, Northern Illinois, Minnesota, Northern California, Northern Georgia and Arizona.

As originally introduced the bill proposed an increase of 22. The committee today decided to amend the original bill by giving Massachusetts and Southern New York one Judge each instead of two, as proposed, and by striking from the bill the increase of one each proposed for Western Pennsylvania, Southern Florida, Eastern Illinois, Eastern Missouri, Western Missouri, Eastern Oklahoma, Montana and Southern California. The committee added the Northern District of Georgia, which was not proposed in the bill as introduced.

JOHN R. CALHOUN DIES AT 69

John R. Calhoun, 69 years old, of 5024 Gevee avenue, father of Circuit Judge John W. Calhoun, died of bronchitis at his home today.

He was born in St. Louis and during the Civil War served as a messenger for Gen. Grant. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Caroline E. Calhoun, a brother, Samuel Calhoun, 1442 Union boulevard, two sons and a daughter. The children are Judge John W. Calhoun, Leslie D. Calhoun and Miss Mildred L. Calhoun.

M'CORMACK IS REPORTED ILL

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 6.—A complication of throat infections last night caused John McCormack to cancel five engagements. He left for New York City.

Throat specialists who attended him diagnosed the treatment as "acute laryngitis and inflammation of the trachea." It is possible that McCormack will be able to sing again in a week, physicians said. McCormack had difficulty in completing the concert here.

Wife Admits Killing Sleeping Man. By the Associated Press. LACROSSE, Wis., Feb. 4.—Frank Piek, 27 years old, walked into the police station here yesterday, handed a revolver to the Sergeant and announced that she had shot her husband Saturday morning.

Items of Interest

As Mysterious as "The Bat"

In its moments of relaxation, the public yearns for a good novel. Absorbing detective stories with intriguing plots are achieving greater prominence in the book world. "Midnight," by O. R. Cohen develops a situation of fascinating originality, unexpected twists, and an amazing conclusion. $1.75

All Dressed Up for Spring

The Fourth Floor is so radiantly Springlike that you almost imagine yourself on an extra-size veranda, or a spacious Summer home. Wicker Furniture in old ivory, olive, grass, natural and periwinkle finishes is conveniently near the new hand-blocked cottons with iridescent hangings to harmonize.

The Day of Kings

Two centuries ago mirrors were largely the possession of royalty, and were listed among the crown jewels. Today the home without a Mirror of some description would be so deserving of comment that the news reporters would make a "story" of it. A 15x30 Wall Mirror with a frame of shimmering gold designed in color is only $5.98

They Deserve a New Name

Rag Rugs in as charming and unusual color combinations as these oval braided ones are far more attractive than the old bit-and-miss gingham and calico schemes. These add a real note of beauty to a bedroom, sun-room, Summer cottage or bathroom. In four sizes: priced from $3.25 to $8.25

It Stands to Reason

—that if a very small child were to be consulted on the type of apparel she should wear, she would firmly insist upon a trim little tweed Topcoat in place of a heavier or fluffier wrap. They come in pretty colors at $9.95 and $14.95, with wee Hats to match at $3.95

Our Distinguished Guest

—Mr. George, the English novelist, advocates uniforms for women in America. Well, if Mr. George should see the piquant Frocks of puppy-skin taffeta at Vandervoort's, in a variety of colors and the most unique of the season's style offerings for Spring, he'd change his mind. One even shows an apron front, which may be turned into a cape. $39.75

VALUE OF UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL EXPLAINED

Washington U. Professor Cites Four Advantages to Medical Science and to Public.

The benefits which medical science and the public share in the combination of a school of medicine and a hospital were described yesterday by Dr. Ernest Sachs, professor of clinical neurological surgery of Washington University, in one of the series of Sunday afternoon public health lectures being given at the Washington University School of Medicine auditorium, Euclid and Scott avenues.

Such a combination exists in St. Louis between the Washington University medical school and Barnes Hospital, and the rarity of relationship explains why from time to time groups about to build university hospitals in other cities and in foreign countries visit this city and determine to copy the plan.

Dr. Sachs gave as the four chief benefits of a university hospital: (1) The expectation that the care of the sick will be more effective than in a general hospital; (2) unusual opportunity for medical students to gain experience; (3) the more thorough training of nurses; and (4) the unusual possibility of research work and advancement of science.

An Intimate Relation.
A University hospital is one which, the professors and instructors of the medical school constitute the staff of the hospital.

Dr. Sachs said that an impression sometimes encountered that the students in a teaching hospital carry out the treatment. "I have had a patient ask me that no student be permitted to operate upon her," he said. "Never have I seen or known of a single instance where a student was permitted to operate or carry out any treatment except the very simplest, and this only under careful instruction and supervision. Is it not wiser to permit a student to do simple things under supervision and guidance just before graduation than to turn him loose on the community without having had that experience? Once he has his degree he is entitled legally to undertake any sort of procedure whether he has had the training for it or not."

The student in a university hospital, explained Dr. Sachs, takes the histories of illnesses, examines patients and make laboratory tests essential in thorough diagnosis. "All these are gone over and checked up by the physicians in charge, their teachers," Dr. Sachs said. "Another advantage is that the student observes at first hand virtually all that his medical text books try to picture. Every tissue removed at operation is available for teaching, the student and such laboratory should be prepared to let the student see what, for example, the appendix looks like when a patient has had certain symptoms. He sees the patient first, he sees the operation, and then examines the appendix in the laboratory. A young physician trained under such a regime goes into the community a safer person to treat the sick."

Many Patients Enjoy Students.
"In this connection," he continued, "there is another point sometimes raised, namely, that patients object to being examined by students. I have been connected with a university hospital for 15 years and I do not recall more than one or at most two instances where the slightest objection was raised by a patient to examination by a student. In such cases the patients' wishes were always respected. On the other hand, I have had a great many private patients who have enjoyed the experience of meeting the students."

Dr. Sachs said that in a university hospital "the physicians and surgeons are constantly on exhibition before a critical and pitiless student body. It is and always must be the rule," he said, "that the doors of the operating rooms stand open to the students. The physicians must be ready at all times to justify to the students any diagnosis."

The physicians also have grave responsibility to the university, for in reality they are taking care of the patient for the university. In this dual responsibility, the patient is doubly safeguarded. In addition, the university hospital must have facilities that frequently are not present in general hospitals."

The lecture next Sunday afternoon, at 3:30, will be upon "Overweight and Health," by Dr. William H. Oltstead, associate in clinical medicine.

C. L. MARTIN, OFFICIAL OF MANUFACTURING COMPANY, DIES

He Also Was Vice President of Webster Groves Trust Co. and Resided There.

Charles L. Martin, 64 years old, of 39 Joy avenue, Webster Groves, vice president of the Webster Groves Trust Co., and of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., died of pneumonia yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital.

He retired from active management of the Crunden-Martin company several years ago and later made a trip to the Orient. Last year he toured Europe. He was born at Maquoketa, Ia., and was educated in the public schools of St. Louis and at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Ia. In 1891 he organized the Martin Woodenware Co., which was moved, in the following year by the Crunden-Martin Woodenware Co., now the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eleanor C. Martin, and two children, Leonard C. and Frances E. Martin. The funeral will be held at 3:15 p. m. tomorrow from the First Congregational Church in Webster Groves. Burial will be in Bellefontaine.

POLICE ARE ACCUSED BY LAWYER IN I. W. W. CASE

Missourian Charges He Was Threatened and Told to Leave Eldorado, Ark.

By the Associated Press
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.—Allegations of threats against him, of invasion of his room by the police and of incarceration for a few minutes in the city jail at Eldorado, Ark., were contained in a formal statement issued here yesterday by Henry S. Julian, a Kansas City attorney, on his return from Eldorado, where he went last Wednesday to represent several men who afterwards found were regarded as members of the Industrial Workers of the World by the Eldorado police.

Julian said he went to Eldorado at the request of local clients who informed him a relative was in trouble. He said he bore a letter from Mayor Sam H. Broder of Kansas City, to the Mayor of Eldorado. The Eldorado Mayor, he said, was away when he arrived. The prisoners, he said, had been fined on a vagrancy charge. Later, he said, the charge was changed to burglary.

"The trouble began," Julian stated, "when I answered that I would appeal the vagrancy convictions."

"I was constantly importuned to leave town and was told that the Ku Klux Klan were strong there and had vigilance committees that tarred and feathered men on occasions."

"I told them I was from Missouri where they did not believe in Ku Klux Klan strong arm methods; that they could not point to a case in Missouri where a man had been Ku Kluxed or tarred and feathered who understood the mechanism of an automobile and they let me alone."

Early Thursday morning, Julian said, two police officers entered his room at the hotel, awakened him and compelled him to accompany them. At police headquarters, he said, Captain told him that I. W. W. was unpopular in Eldorado and that he "had no right to be representing them."

Says He Was Put in Cell
Then, he said, the Captain asked him if he would be willing to go to jail for his clients. When he replied in the affirmative, Julian said, the Captain declared: "For that I'll let you up." The Captain opened the jail door and he went inside and was down on a step, Julian said. A few minutes later, he said, the Captain reopened the door and he walked out.

Shortly after that, according to the statement, Julian was notified he wanted in the courtroom. There, he said, were gathered many of the men who had warned him to leave. The Mayor, he said, made a talk and asked him what he had to say. Julian said he reiterated previous statements that he knew nothing of the alleged I. W. W. membership of his clients. Then, he said, the Mayor announced a doctor would speak "to the people." The doctor stressed the point that they did not like I. W. W. in Eldorado. Shortly after the doctor had concluded speaking, however, the statement said, the Mayor asked police officers to release the men. That was done, and, Julian said, he paid their railroad fare to Little Rock and left immediately for Kansas City.

TREASURE WORTH $300,000,000 GONE FROM RUSSIAN CATHEDRAL

Precious Jewels and Church Vessels Among Loot Taken From St. Sergius' Monastery.

By the Associated Press
SERGIYEVO, Russia, Feb. 6.—The $300,000,000 treasury of the Cathedral of the Trinity monastery of St. Sergius has disappeared. Russian soldiers now use as a barracks the buildings of what was once regarded as the richest and most famous convent of all the Russias, save possibly that at Kiev. There are but 15 monks left in the monastery.

The very jewels of the open silver sarcophagus of St. Sergius have been removed or replaced with false ones, it is claimed. Many of the treasures of church vessels, mirrors and crucifixes, made of solid gold and inlaid with precious stones of immense value, are missing. It is claimed that the loot from the monastery equaled in value the treasury of gold and silver and stones of St. Peter's in Rome.

The monks remaining at the monastery show the churches to the visitors. The monastery is claimed as a national soviet museum. Service is held within the cathedral churches.

ESCAPING GAS KILLS FOUR

Two Women and Two Men Succumb to Fumes.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Escaping gas killed two women and two men here yesterday. The bodies of Misses Mary and Elizabeth Howard, and 48 years old, were found in the apartment in Douglas street, Brooklyn, when neighbors traced down a escaping fumes. A cook stove jet was found open.

Albert Berg, 55 years old, was found dead in bed at his Broome street home. Closed windows and wide open jet pointed to suicide. John Brown succumbed to fumes escaping from a gas heater in a bedroom at his Far Rockaway home where he was shaving. Defective piping was blamed by the police.

GOVERNOR SENDS 9 FOOD INSPECTORS HERE

Appoints Two Men and Transfers Others After Post-Dispatch Expose of Conditions.

Food and Drug Commissioner Prather will be in St. Louis tomorrow to direct the work of nine inspectors who are to undertake a drive against the sale of impure foodstuffs here. The announcement, made at the headquarters of the department in Jefferson City, followed the action of Gov. Hyde in appointing two new food and drug inspectors for St. Louis, and ordering seven other inspectors transferred from other parts of the State for temporary duty here.

These inspectors arrived here this morning and immediately received definite assignments from Dr. E. L. Barnhouse, who is assisting Food and Drug Commissioner Prather. They are working with four inspectors who have been on duty here since last week.

Prather is expected to arrive here tomorrow to personally direct the campaign.

The Governor's action followed disclosure of local conditions by the Post-Dispatch last week, in articles showing that several grocers have been selling impure and off-color foodstuffs, mostly canned goods, which Federal authorities believe are a menace to the public health.

The city has been without regularly appointed food and drug inspectors for some time, Gov. Hyde having failed to make the appointments. He said the delay was not occasioned by any political factional differences, as has been reported, but declined to give his reason for the delay.

The inspectors appointed are Thomas Hazard, 3618 Federal avenue, a Republican and personal friend of the Governor, and Edward Brockschmidt of Maplewood, a Republican recommended by Fred Eason, County Republican Party Committee. The Republican City Committee has recommended George Hohmann and Herman Meuser, both members of the committee, but no action has been taken on the recommendation.

Commissioner Prather said his chief deputy and another inspector from St. Joseph had been sent here in the last week and that they with the other inspectors would start a thorough investigation of the complaints that impure foods are being sold here. He added that he has had outside inspectors come here from time to time to go over the situation and in their limited time they had done effective work. In one instance, a few weeks ago, sending 1400 cans of spoiled kum and fruit in a North Broadway grocery.

BERLIN'S GAS, WATER AND ELECTRICITY SUPPLY STOPS

Strike Cripples City When Rail Strike Spreads to Municipal Employees. Car Service Halted.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Tramway service and the gas, water and electricity supply in Berlin were completely shut off when the municipal employees struck yesterday. Eleven hospitals are without water and light.

The strike of railroad men has extended to all of Baden, where the workers went out Saturday. Nothing has come of the negotiations for settling the railway strike, which now has been in progress since Wednesday.

Many factories and bakeries have reduced their working hours, and some of them have already closed down.

MAN CONVICTED, BROTHER IS FREED IN BANK ROBBERY CASE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALEM, Ill., Feb. 4.—The jury in the case of Ed and Lex Hall, charged with the robbery of the Iuka State Bank, on Dec. 10, returned a verdict finding Ed guilty, but exonerating Lex.

Lex had 11 witnesses who testified they had seen him in Flora the afternoon of the robbery. Ed said he was in Kincaid, Ill., Dec. 10, but the State introduced testimony that destroyed his alibi. Judge Wright has withheld sentence until arguments can be heard for a new trial or an appeal.

Two more men are under arrest suspected of complicity in the crime.

Sermon Reported by Radio.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 4.—For the first time in newspaper history in this city, the Peoria Transcript last night successfully reported local news by radio phone. A reporter took down notes on a sermon which was preached in a church a mile away.

February Silk Sale

The Silk Classic of St. Louis

THOUSANDS of yards of rich, lustrous fabrics, crisp from the looms, the acme of weaver's perfection, transformed the Silk Salon into a palace of delight where glorious, vivid colorings of Spring punctuate the elegance of subdued and neutral hues.

The event is, indeed, well named "A Classic" when it can maintain the standards of beauty and of value which this offering establishes. Prices speak for themselves in the representative items, which follow:

Foulards, $1.50 Yard

The designs shown in this group are very new and quite effective. Splendid quality, pure silk, in various shades including navy and black-and-white. 36 inches wide.

Roman Satins, $1.98 Yard

Roman blocked Satins in monotone colorings, old blue combinations and old rose effects. Very fashionable and a splendid quality. 36 inches wide.

Black Taffeta, $1.59, $1.79, $1.98, $2.50

We have assembled four splendid groups of Black Taffeta that are outstanding in quality and value. They are reliable in quality, of perfect dye and of selected weights. Yard wide.

Crepe Shirtings, $1.49 Yard

Remarkable collection of all-silk Crepe and La Jere Shirtings, showing new designs and color combinations; very durable.

Pekin Stripes, $4.95 Yard

Satin Pekin Striped Canton Crepe, unusual for its beauty of weave and coloring. Shown in a wide variety of good shades, including pash, navy, silver, white, black and flesh pink. 40 inches wide.

Wash Satins, $1.39 Yard

A special quality that lathers without discoloring in white and flesh pink. 36 inches wide.

Imported Novelties, $2.98 Yard

Silver and gold tinsel effects with Pekin striped designs, offering several combinations for selection. 36 inches wide.

Dress Cantons, $2.98 and $3.95 Yard

Two remarkable groups of first quality pure silk Canton Crepe, in an assortment of the newest colorings. The new Spanish and sports shades, as well as standard colorings, with an abundance of navy blue and black, are included. These two numbers represent the best Canton made in America. 40 inches wide.

Marinette Crepe, $3.50 Yard

Genuine Marinette Crepe with satin rape edge—one of the most dependable and beautiful Crepes created in America. Thirty-five wonderful colorings to select from, including evening and street shades. 40 inches wide.

Plain Crepe de Chine, $1.79, $1.98, $2.50 Yard

We have assembled three of the strongest groups of Crepe de Chine that we have ever shown. The weights and textures are desirable for frocks, blouses, negligees and undergarments. They are authentic in color and weave and come in 40-inch width. In the three groups are over 200 pieces for selection.

Chamois Crepon, $4.95 Yard

This is one of the most beautiful Crepes ever woven—for distinctive gowns and costumes, adaptable for the new capes and wraps. The new nut brown, antelope and other shades of brown and navy blue are shown in 40-inch width.

Satin Niagara, $3.95 Yard

A beautiful Canton in very heavy thread, with a satin back. Reversible texture, of pure silk, in the new blue shades and rich black. For gowns, suits and wraps. 40 inches wide.

Tricolette, $1.19 Yard

Good quality Fiber Silk Tricolette, in navy, black and various colors; excellent weave; flat fold. 36 inches wide.

Black Satin, $1.59, $1.79, $1.98, $2.50

Four groups, including all-silk messaline, satin de chine, Imperial and Luxor Satins, selected for their even weave and durability.

MULE TEAM Borax SOAP CHIPS

Washes clothes cleaner than any other known soap or washing compound. Borax, Nature's Greatest Cleanser, is combined in large quantities with the finest soap, and the result is a soap chip that will wash all fabrics clean without injury. 20 Mule Team Borax Soap Chips will wash the most delicate, as well as the coarsest fabrics—the softest, as well as the deepest colors without fading a particle. 20 Mule Team Borax Soap Chips softens the wash-water and cleans all clothes hygienically clean. And it's good for the hands. It's the Borax in the soap that does the work. Try it for this week's wash. At all grocers and department stores.

News of the Business World

By Wire to the Post-Dispatch

RAIN CAUSES BRISK BUYING.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 6.—

Good weather, following the best rains Texas and the Southwest have had in the last 3 months, developed a real buying spell last week, and this was fortified by bargains offered by the larger stores. The rainfall, which ended what threatened to be a disastrous drought, resulted in improved sentiment in other lines also. Livestock on the ranges is in better condition. The agricultural prospect is brighter and good grain crops are in prospect.

The ending of the packing house
strike has ended tension in this locality as the controversy resulted in considerable disorder here. Fair weather has permitted operations in the oil fields to proceed and many men have been employed as a consequence. The last week has been the best of the year so far, taking business as a whole.

Union painters have voluntarily reduced their wage scale from $8 to $6 a day in the smaller cities. This action, they announced, was to aid
in stimulating building.

Collections were not so good as in December in the wholesale and retail centers in the South in the last 10 days.

TEXTILES AT CRITICAL POINT.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 6.—The textile industry in New England seems to be at rather a critical point. The owners of the mills seem determined,
however, to keep the wheel turning at full speed as long as possible. The cotton mills are finding it increasingly difficult to meet competition of the Southern mills. The reduction in wages in Connecticut and Rhode Island cotton mills has been followed by similar action in the mills of New Hampshire and Maine, and employers and buyers are awaiting the result of a vote by the operatives in Northern New England as to whether they will accept the reduction when it becomes effective Feb. 15.

It is becoming increasingly evident
that those companies which will obtain the business in 1933 are the ones that can cut their costs to the bone
and sell on a close margin of profit.

The recent price announcements of the leading woolen and cotton manufacturers indicates recognition of this fact.

The business situation as a whole seems to be improving slowly. The railroads are carrying slightly more goods, unemployment is slowly decreasing and the manufacturing output is somewhat larger. Sentiment in business and banking circles is conservatively cheerful. It is believed that within a month when the impetus of the spring begins to be felt business will be considerably improved.

BETTER TRADE ALONG COAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—There is a better tone noticeable in the country trade along the Pacific Coast, although business in the rural communities still is far from normal
and both bank balances and loans
there are at a low ebb. In the cities business and commercial men are optimistic. They feel there has been too much talk of depression and hard times and that this in itself has been a depressing factor.

Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific Railroad, who has just made a trip of inspection over the line, said today he found business on the upgrade practically everywhere and particularly in Texas, Arizona and California.

The activity in real estate here has seldom been surpassed. Real estate transfers in the last 30 days have exceeded the record of any 30 days since the great fire of 1906. Building also is active. The number of building permits issued in January
have been surpassed only three times
in the history of the city.

The registration of automobiles in California so far this year indicates that the number of cars owned and operated within the State will exceed all previous records.

TOMBSTONE WORKERS' PAY CUT

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Feb. 6.—

The explanation given for the reduction of from 6 to 8 cents an hour in the wages of workers in the monumental granite trade, one of the principal industries here, is that no orders for tombstones or war memorials are being received. Only stock

nearly $50,000 worth of headstones
from Germany, made of Scandinavian granite. Large English cities are getting tombstones and even war
memorials from Germany at rates
the Aberdeen cutters could not meet,
at the old rate of wages.

Yesterday, As Usual, the Post-Dispatch Exceeded Both Others Combined

The Big Sunday POST-DISPATCH yesterday, as usual, carried a far greater volume of Paid Advertising than the Globe-Democrat and the Star combined. This customary record of long repeated achievements is due to the fact that advertisers generally concentrate in that newspaper which brings them the best results.

The measurements are as follows:

STEPS INSURING SAFETY OF THEATERS PLANNED

McKelvey to Order Roof Inspection and to Ask for Laws Covering Entrances and Exits.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey, who has just returned from Washington, where he examined the Knickerbocker Theater, the roof of which recently collapsed under the weight of a heavy snow, killing 99 persons, today announced that he would take the following steps to make sure of the safety of St. Louis theaters:

Ask the city law department to draft an ordinance requiring all theaters to divide the lobby into two sections, one for ingress and the other for egress, and to prohibit persons from standing in the egress portions; and further to prohibit the admission into the theater of persons for whom there are no seats.

Order engineers of his department to inspect the roofs of all theaters to determine if any weaknesses exist which might cause a disaster such as that in Washington.

If after a thorough inspection changes in the building code are found advisable to recommend such changes.

From his examination of the walls of the Knickerbocker Theater, McKelvey concluded that such a disaster was not likely to occur in St. Louis, because the type of construction used in the Knickerbocker walls is not permitted for theaters by the St. Louis building code. This type of construction is the use of hollow tile set on end.

He said he found the main supporting truss of the roof had one end resting on a steel column and the other on a curved hollow-tile wall. It was his opinion that the hollow-tile wall had been caused to lean outward by the vibration from street cars or from the settling of the building and that the support of the roof truss had become insecure.

Walled Cities

In the days of long ago there where no large cities, but every city had what no city has to-day—a high and solid wall surrounding it. In time of danger all the people who tilled the fields around the city gathered up their goods and rushed for the protection of the walls and in reality, a city was little more than a safe depository for wealth.

If you had lived in those days, you would have used a walled city for protecting your wealth. Are you using the modern method? Are you depositing something every pay-day in a Mississippi Valley Trust Company savings account?

San Francisco—$36.06 and $18,602,000.
Buffalo—$38.25 and $19,712,000.
Data for the last fiscal year in Detroit, Cleveland and Baltimore have not been received.

CITY'S REBUTTAL TESTIMONY HEARD IN CROSSING CASE

Engineer Says 75 Per Cent of Grade Crossings Have Been Eliminated in Cleveland.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CLEVELAND, Feb. 6.—The Public Service Commission today is hearing rebuttal testimony by the city of St. Louis in the Delmar crossing case, in which the city seeks to compel the Wabash Railroad to eliminate the grade crossing at Delmar boulevard. The city, and the Wabash and Rock Island Railroads are represented at the hearing, which will last two or three days.

Bridge Engineer Cook of the city of Cleveland was the principal witness for the city, testifying today that approximately 75 per cent of the railroad crossings in Cleveland are now grade crossings, but the highway and the railroad tracks are at different levels. Cleveland has 29 highway bridges, and in the remainder of cases in which the grades have been separated the streets go under the tracks.

SHOT DURING SCUFFLE IN SALOON

Man Being Ejected Seized Revolver.

Joseph McDonald, 24 years old, of 2110 De Kalb street, was found by policemen near Seventh and Ruter streets at 5:30 p. m. yesterday. Although shot in the thigh, he refused to give any information. Edward Dominick, 37, a bartender in the saloon of his brother, George, 1300 South Seventh street, was arrested. Dominick said McDonald had entered the saloon with a friend and had demanded whisky. When told none was to be had, he said, McDonald grew quarrelsome and he ordered him from the place. McDonald, he said, picked up a chair and refused to be ejected. Dominick said he got a revolver and was ejecting McDonald, when the latter grabbed the revolver and in the struggle it was discharged and McDonald wounded. Dominick gave bond.

EQUALIZATION BOARD NAMED

Judges Appoint Men Whose Sittings Will Begin in March.

The Circuit Judges, in general term, today elected the following to be members of the City Board of Equalization to sit with the Assessor in equalizing taxes: Louis H. Lohmeyer, real estate broker, 2325 South Compton avenue; George T. Kollas, real estate broker, 3542 Halliday avenue; Charles A. Lich, lawyer, 7028 Berthold avenue, and Edwin Nolte, insurance broker, 8505 Concord place, a brother of Comptroller Nolte.

The first meeting of the board will be held the second Monday in March and meetings will continue for about five weeks, the members of the board receiving $10 a day for sessions attended. Taxpayers who regard their real estate or personal property assessments as too high are heard by the board.

THE price of wheat is lower this year, so the price of Valier's Enterprise Flour is lower. It will never cost the same as ordinary flour because we can't make Enterprise from ordinary wheat. We must have fine, strong-gluten hard wheat—and this year it is very scarce. The premium we pay to get it is your insurance against failure. But isn't a few cents a sack extra cheap insurance?

P.S. Valier's Enterprise Flour has concentrated strength. Eight or even less cups of Enterprise go as far as nine of ordinary flour. Use less flour when you bake with Enterprise.

RICH BLOODHealth, Strength and Vigor
Built Up by Gude's
Pepto-Mangan

You see one child strong and rosy; another child pale and thin. One eats practically the same food and takes the same exercise as the other. What is the difference? Nearly always it's a difference in the quality of the blood. The strong child has rich, red blood and plenty of it. You love to see him eat so heartily. If your child is thin and weak, give him Gude's Pepto-Mangan to build up the blood and see the difference between a sickly, unhappy child and a bountiful, healthy child.

Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a pack of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS IN WEST,
NORTH AND EAST PREDICTEDChairman Rouse of Party's National Congressional Committee Announces Progress of Organization

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The prediction that the Democratic party would make gains in every state in the North, East and West, and would retrieve, in the coming campaign, the ground lost in Tennessee and Texas in the last election, was made today by Representative Arthur B. Rouse of Kentucky, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, in a formal announcement that the committee organization would be completed within a week.

"We have been proceeding energetically," the statement said, "and have about completed our organization in each state. Our committee includes in its membership a representative in Congress from every state in the Union that has Democratic representation in the national law-making body. There are now 25 states without Democratic representation."

"The committee also will have a woman representative in each state."

Regarding political conditions throughout the country, Rouse said that reports from every state and many districts therein indicate that the people are "not satisfied with the present administration and are especially displeased with Congress, but there has been a complete failure in redeeming the promises of relief that were made during the last campaign."

The emergency tariff law Mr. Rouse declared, has been an "absolute failure," and instead of helping the farmer, as it was passed "ostensibly" to do, "we find farmers burning corn for fuel and wheat selling lower than when the bill was passed."

M'ADOO SHOWS DIFFICULTIES
OF WAR RISK INSURANCEMuch Criticism of Care of Disabled
Former Soldiers Unheeded

He Says

Former Secretary McAdoo spoke before the Southern Illinois Red Cross Conference, which met at the Hotel Statler today. He said there has been a great deal of unkind criticism as to the care of disabled ex-service men and the work of the War Risk Bureau. He said the idea of war risk insurance resulted from the experience of a committee which undertook to raise funds in New York for the dependents of needy Spanish War veterans. The theory of war risk insurance was that men could not fight so well if they were worried about home affairs.

He told of the difficulties of organizing and housing the War Risk Bureau, it being necessary to employ inexperienced young women and to work in offices in 15 separate buildings.

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES TO MEET

Plan to Keep Bonns in Effect Will Be Discussed

A mass meeting of Federal employees will be held tomorrow night under the auspices of the Federal Employees' Union, Local 24, at the Mechanics' Hall, 2225 Pine street, to draft a plan of action looking toward keeping the Federal employees' bonus of $249 a year in effect after June 30, the date of its expiration.

A bill is pending in Congress for the reclassification of Federal employees providing for readjustment of duties and salaries. The bonus was put into effect during the war. There are approximately 1000 Federal employees in the local union, which is affiliated with a national organization. Meetings are being held in other cities. No executives belong to the union. Among the speakers tomorrow night will be Circuit Judge Moses Hartmann, who will explain the provisions of the pending bill.

$147,000 TO BE CLAIMED FOR CLOSED BANK

Commissioner Will Try to Collect in New York Insurance Assigned by Meyer Katz.

J. G. Hughes, State Commissioner of Finance, who is in charge of the looted Night and Day Bank, announced at Jefferson City this afternoon that he would depart tomorrow for New York, accompanied by T. E. Francis, a St. Louis attorney, to learn whether it will be possible to collect $147,000 insurance money, representing a claim assigned to the bank by Meyer Katz, head of the Banco Transportation Co.

Hughes said the assignment of the insurance claim was made by Katz to cover a part of liabilities to the bank which Katz has admitted, and which amount to $150,000. The insurance claim is for the cargoes of three boats sunk in the Gulf of Mexico.

Hughes said he did not know just what the cargoes consisted of, but that Katz had assured him they were not liquor.

One of the employees of the bank, who was a witness before the grand jury, is said to have had a conversation with Arthur O. Meininger, cashier of the bank, as to the large "cash items" representing advances of the bank's money to Katz. Meininger is said to have replied to him that the advances were covered by the insurance which Katz was due to collect for a cargo of "booze" sunk in the Gulf.

Katz's claim is against insurance companies having their headquarters in New York.

PROPERTY OWNERS MUST PAY MILL CREEK SEWER TAX BILLS

Test Case Decided by Judge Ferriss Determines 35 Others—About $105,000 Involved.

Circuit Judge Ferriss today decided that some Mill Creek Valley property owners, who have been resisting payment of their special tax bills for the Mill Creek Sewer, must pay. He determined a test case in favor of Charles W. Bates, attorney, who held tax bills issued to the Carter Construction Co., builders of the sewer. Thirty-five other cases, by agreement of counsel, depended on the outcome in this case, and the amount involved was estimated at $105,000.

The total of tax bills for the work was about $2,425,000, and of this about $2,360,000 has been paid, so that the suits involved in today's decision represents the greater part of the balance. The taxpayers objected to paying for the Mill Creek sewer as a district work, alleging that it should have been paid for by the general public. Judge Ferriss, in his decision, held that the benefit to the general public outside the district was negligible. The Haessler Investment Co. brought the test case, which was an injunction proceeding to restrain Bates from collecting the bills.

ST. LOUIS ONE OF 40 CITIES REPORTING INCREASE IN EMPLOYMENT FOR JANUARYKansas City Shown With 8 Per Cent Decrease
Under December Figures in Report Issued
by United States Employment Service.

From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—St. Louis is one of 40 cities reporting an employment increase in January over December.

Director-General Jones of the United States Employment Service announces the increase as 2.9 per cent. St. Louis had a decrease in December under November. The total amount of increase in employment in January was 419. Kansas City had a decrease of 8 per cent, or an actual reduction in employment of 441.

Detroit had the greatest increase, or 29.9 per cent, and Sioux City, Ia., second, with 21 per cent. Other cities with increases more than St. Louis were: San Francisco, 14.8; Tonkara, 7.2; Cleveland, 7; Brockton, Mass., 6.3; Omaha, 6; Baltimore, 4.9; Portland, 4.8; Syracuse, 4; Chicago, 4; Toledo, 3.7; Trenton, N. J., Springfield, Mass., 3.4; New Orleans, 3.2; Seattle, 3.1.

Director Jones said there has been a steady betterment in the unemployment situation.

What Survey Shows.
A survey of business, covering the year 1921, he said, "shows that 60 per cent of the business transacted at St. Louis was manufacturing and 40 per cent jobbing. The total goods manufactured and wholesaled are equal in volume to 1920, but prices are approximately one-third lower. From advance sales it is confidently expected that the spring business will show improvement over last year. Unemployment, despite the foregoing, however, has been increasing steadily, especially among the unskilled, since early in September.

GENERAL DE WET, BOER WAR LEADER, IS DEADWas Commander-in-Chief of Transvaal Forces and Noted for Strategic Ability.

By the Associated Press.
BLOEMFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 8.—Gen. Christiaan de Wet, commander in chief of the Boer forces in the war of 1899, died at his home in Beersdorp today (Friday).

Christian Rudolf de Wet was born Oct. 7, 1854, at Loosduyn, in the South African district of South Africa. He served in the first Anglo-Boer war of 1880-81, and was a member of the Volksraad when the second war, in which he took such a prominent part, broke out.

He received an obscure command at first, but later was sent to relieve Gen. Cronje, whom he succeeded on the latter's surrender.

His operations against the British were marked by considerable strategic ability, his forces falling upon and annihilating isolated British posts while the enemy's columns attempted in vain to surround him.

In the peace negotiations of 1902 he took a prominent part and later visited Europe with other Boer generals seeking without avail a modification of the terms of peace concluded at Pretoria.

He was elected a member of the first Parliament of the Orange River Colony in 1907, and was appointed Minister of Agriculture.

Shortly after the outbreak of the World War he headed a rebellion in the Orange Free State and Western Transvaal, which was suppressed by the Government. The latter was a month of fighting, in which a son, Daniel, was killed and Gen. de Wet wounded. When his forces surrendered to those under Gen. Louis Botha, de Wet succeeded in escaping with 25 men, but was captured a few days later.

For this rebellion he was tried and on June 1915, convicted of treason and sentenced to six years' imprisonment, with a fine of $10,000. He was released, however, after being confined only six months.

PROHIBITION MOVEMENT IS SET ABOUT BY AUSTRIAN DEMOCRATS

By a Staff Correspondent of the Morning Guardian and the Post-Dispatch.
VIENNA, Feb. 6.—A movement of total prohibition—or at least a restriction of alcoholic consumption—has been started here, owing to the fact that in 1921 the people of Austria spent 200,000,000 crowns on the three liquors.

Nearly a million hectolitres of wine and spirits were imported, although Austria itself produces a half million hectolitres of wine and large quantities of beer and spirits. The prohibition movement is supported by the Social Democratic leadership. It is improbable that Parliament, as it is constituted, will vote total prohibition, but it may reduce the importation of spirits by various measures, including greatly increased custom duties.

This is partly due to an influx of unemployed from the cities. There has been little change in the metal trades since early in 1921.

As to Kansas City Director Jones reported: "The largest packing plant reports an increase in the number of cars shipped during the first two weeks of January over the same period of last year, and also reports a record week of hog killing. Unemployment has shown an increase during January in the unskilled and migratory workers. It is serious in its nature, in that it has been of such long duration."

Conditions Elsewhere.
The following conditions exist in Hannibal and Springfield:

"Hannibal—1922 opens with a better January business than 1921. Manufacturing is continuing steadily and in a very satisfactory volume, the only decrease noted has been seasonal. Wholesaling, which is limited in volume in this city, is quiet, while retail trade for 1921 was about 80 per cent of the preceding year. Unemployment has shown a tendency to decrease. Local business is confident of a continued improvement.

"Springfield—During January the railroad shops made a slight decrease in the number of employees. This January business does not denote a permanent downward trend. General business is about the same as in January, 1921. Retail trade held up remarkably well throughout 1920 with an increase in the volume of sales, and sales receipts equalling those of 1920. Unemployment is more noticeable and since much of it has been long standing, is serious in its character."

MATTER NOT MENTIONED IN INQUIRY INTO
CITY SPRINKLING BIDSMatter Not Mentioned in Instructions to February
Grand Jury.

No reference to the inquiry into the methods of sprinkling contracts was made in Judge Kilborn's charge to the new February grand jury, which was impaneled today. The Judge said Saturday that he would call Kilborn's attention to the matter if any city official should ask him to do so, but he got no such request. It is expected that the matter may be placed before the grand jury later, through the Circuit Attorney's office.

John L. Messmore of 5448 Enright avenue, president of the Ballard-Messmore Grain Co., was made foreman of the new grand jury. The Judge, in his charge, directed the grand jurors to make any further inquiry which might be needed into the affairs of the closed Night and Day Bank, mentioned in the frequent occurrence of automobile fatalities and of street robberies, especially of bank messengers.

He said, however, that the "crime wave" seemed to be on the decline, and he complimented the police for their efforts and the former grand jury for its work.

Two men who failed to appear for service as possible grand jurors were taken into court on attachments, and were fined $25 each for their neglect of the Court's summons. They were T. N. Karaker of 6799 McPherson avenue, who said he thought the subpoena was for tomorrow, and Edward F. Otto of 4260 Clarence avenue, who admitted that he overlooked the matter entirely.

Testimony Not Transcribed.
At the headquarters of the Board of Public Service, which investigated the sprinkling matter last week, it was learned that the stenographic transcript of the testimony taken at Friday's sprinkling inquiry had not been written up by the board's stenographers.

President Kinsey of the board has written a letter to city Counselor Caulfield, to be forwarded with the transcript when it is ready, and asking the City Counselor to read the transcript, and report to the Circuit Attorney anything that may seem to him to need further investigation.

Circuit Attorney Sidner has said that he will place the matter before the grand jury, if any city official should ask him to do so, but he got no such request. It is expected that the matter may be placed before the grand jury later, through the Circuit Attorney's office.

Disclosures as to Bids.
As has been told, the lowest bids for this year's sprinkling, which were accepted by the Board of Public Service Tuesday, and were reconsidered and rejected Friday, averaged 15 per cent higher than last year's price. They varied widely between competitive and non-competitive districts, and the Board made a passing inquiry into reports that

PLAN TO KILL LEAGUE
LAID TO LLOYD GEORGEViviani Declares British Premier Seeks Defeat of Poet on Pro-Latin Grounds.BY LINCOLN EYRE.
(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, Feb. 6.—That Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain is out to kill the League of Nations because he deems it "animated by the Latin spirit," is the charge made today by ex-Premier Viviani, French delegate to the League and Premier Poincaré's choice as head of the French delegation to Genoa, in an interview with a French journalist at Cannes. Premier Viviani said the excuse for eliminating the league from the Genoa conference was to avoid irritating the susceptibilities of the United States. The fact is, he points out, the United States does not want to go to Genoa at all.

"It is certain America does not want to recognize the league," he said. "But how about France? Are we to subscribe to an insult to the only democratic international assembly? Have we forgotten that the league solved the problem of Upper Silesia and is the guardian of the peace treaties?"

Conversion to Lloyd George.
"When at Cannes the league was deprived of its heritage, of that which is its life, a disserviceable concession was made to Lloyd George, who wants to kill the league because it seems to him completely animated by the Latin spirit."

"Four of the eight members of the league's council are Latin—France, Spain, Italy and Brazil. Belgium has generally been with them. China, too, gained her membership in the council by Latin votes and has favored this group. The remaining members are Great Britain and Japan."

"I see that it is not pleasant, and I see what is sought by the British Premier—when the league has been plundered of its prestige and its life, and when the league is in the hands of functionaries, then the cry will arise, 'It is valueless. There is no reason for its existence.'"

"The American participation in European affairs, Viviani said: 'It is to be hoped that it will come, but we must be patient. Europe is misunderstood in America, and there is a Senate which opposes everything.'"

Discussing the accusation that the French delegation always had sought to play the role of arbiter between the United States and Great Britain, the former Premier said:

"There's some truth in that. Our preparation, perhaps, was insufficient, and trying to be arbiter is always a difficult and ungrateful role."

Secret Understandings Denied.
He rejects as untrue the reports of secret understandings between the British and American governments. He pointed to Secretary Hughes' admission of France into the Pacific treaty which Lloyd George wanted to make tripartite. Naval limitations, he intimated, might have been handled differently by the French delegation.

In another newspaper Admiral Guépratte, former head of the French fleet and leading parliamentary naval authority, says:

"The fault of the Washington conference's terminating in pitiable fashion rests somewhat with us. The nations represented there had two bows to our obstinacy in standing pat on the submarine question. We have no ground for vaunting our victory. We declared the submarine to be a defensive weapon and we needed 90,000 tons of them to maintain communications with our colonies. The world was gently amazed at such pretence."

"But we were stubborn, and the result is that no solution whatever could be reached. Consequently, while we cannot build submarines, having neither money nor means, we have given our friends the right to launch as many as they please. Let's cheer."

BLOC'S FARM RATES APPROVED
Senate Committee's Recommendation Reported Higher Than Furney Proposal.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Majority members of the Senate Finance Committee, in framing tariff rates on farm products, are understood to have approved the recommendations of the Senate Republican agricultural tariff bloc in approximately two-thirds of the items thus far considered.

These rates generally are slightly higher than those in the Furney bill.

There was a pool of receipts, with a pro rata distribution, to equalize the receipts of contractors in different districts. Soon after the Board's hearing Friday, a Post-Dispatch reporter found in the Comptroller's office, evidence that the six holders of last year's sprinkling contract assigned all their receipts to the Chippewa Bank, of which Gottlieb Erdmann Jr., one of the contractors, is president.

How the funds were distributed after being collected by the bank, is a matter that the grand jury could determine. A new letting of bids for the 1921 contract is to be advertised.

DEATH OF CREATOR OF ARMY
IN JAPAN ON EVE OF ARMS
PARLEY ENDS 'DAY OF SWORD'Field Marshal Yamagata, Mightiest of Elder Statesmen, Had Seen Japan Rise From Warring Clans to One of Three Powers at Washington.

BY ADACHI KINOSUKE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—On Feb. 1, at Washington, the naval treaty of the five Powers was announced. About the same time, at Tokio, Field Marshal Prince Arimoto Yamagata, by far mightiest of the elder statesmen in Japan, passed away. The two great events, which took place on the same day, meant one and the same thing—one for Japan and the other for the whole world—the days of the sword are numbered.

The death of Prince Yamagata closes an epoch whose history is a political, financial and cultural miracle. It does not mean the end of the Meiji era in Japan was authored by the gods. Any 15-year-old Japanese schoolboy can tell you as much.

To convince yourself, all that you have to do is turn your eyes back upon the high lights of a life like that of Yamagata.

He was born in the Choshu clan in April, 1838. The clan then was one of the two mightiest in Southern Japan. Nobody took note of the coming of the baby; in his mouth it had a wooden spoon, or perhaps one of iron—certainly not of silver. He was a youth of nearly 15 when the black ships of America steamed into the Bay of Redo in 1853 and Commodore Perry nearly frightened the life out of the august Elders of the Shogun in insulting the dignity of the ancient empire and kicking open the door of Nippon by the black muzzles of his guns.

Young Yamagata did not come in touch with the American friends in person. America it was that shaped his destiny, all the same. Yamagata came in contact with the American influence through Yoshida Shoin, his schoolmaster, the intellectual father of so many of the real authors of the new Nippon.

America Shaped His Destiny.
And this is how it all came about: In the speech of the emperor, which was under the command of the great Saigo, Saigo was by far the greatest military genius Japan had produced in many a hundred years—the commander and worshiped as a god, and the idolized commander under whom Yamagata himself had fought at the battle of Fushimi.

But the test came and the newly trained army of Yamagata after the European system came out of it victorious.

It is this army of his own creation which he often used in his own personal command—that backed the way for Nippon through mosebacked Chinese arrogance, through European contempt, over the fields of Manchuria and Korea, that might take her place as one of the "Big Five" at Paris in 1919 and as one of the "Big Three" at Washington.

End of the Day of the Sword.
But the most important, the most interesting thing about Prince Yamagata's life is not his army. It is not what he achieved as the most powerful Elder Statesman of Japan. It is precisely in the passing of these two things: His army and the political institution of which he was the crowning power.

The militant Japan has not passed into the shadows with Prince Yamagata. But the plenary session of the Washington conference told the whole world of the beginning of its end.

As for the second—that anachronism of political Japan called the Elder Statesmen—it takes its journey in company with Prince Yamagata over the bourne from whence there is no returning. Today we have in Japan more than 55,000,000 people—about twice the number that she had when young Yamagata fared forth from the village school.

But there is not a single solitary mortal on step into the wooden clogs of the late Prince, just as there was no mortal Japanese who could take the place of the late Prince Ito when he fell at the Korean assassin's hand at Harbin some years back. Just as there is no candidate for the position filled by the late Marquis Okuma.

There is another reason more compelling: The days of the few lordling it over the many is gone in Japan. The pendulum swing of democratic movement—moving especially in political Japan—is traveling far into the outer extreme.

That, then, is the reason why neither the Privy Council nor the House of Peers, the two bodies of men in Japan can ever hope to recall the sun of the magic regime of the Elder Statesmen from below the horizon. It is gone. It is by no means a potent political factor for a country like Japan. A great, providence-favored land like the United States can make a thousand blunders and wax strong and prosperous in spite of its blunders.

His Early Career.
Yamagata began his career early. As a young officer of the clan army of Choshu he fought at Fushimi, near Kyoto, against the Shogun's men. It was there that he was forced to realize that it was the Occidental methods and weapons, with which his own Choshu warriors, much greater masters than were the Shogun's forces, which decided the day for the Imperial standard. In the hands of the sword of that battle the scales fell from the eyes of the Tarsus of the future army of Japan.

When the Imperial family came back to power, not long after, Yamagata, in company with the younger brother of the great Saigo of Satsuma, went to Europe to investigate the military systems of the West. Yamagata spent a little more than a year in Europe. And the year happened to be 1870. He was able to witness the more important battles of the Franco-Prussian war. On his return to Japan in the spring of 1871, he was placed in charge of the military affairs.

It is due to the stubborn insistence of Yamagata against the opposition of various clansmen that conscription was put in force in Japan. The new army of Japan composed not only of Samurai and sons of Samurai, but also of farmers, artisans and merchants. This was the first democratic fighting force which Japan had seen since the establishment of feudalism in Japan. Naturally enough, the Samurai laughed at the new-fangled toy of Yamagata. "Wait till it will meet the real test—the blades of the Samurai," they said. The test came in the Satsuma rebellion of 1877.

The father of this new army of Japan himself was none too happy over the prospect of seeing his men facing this test. It was a severe one, entirely and possibly too severe in the judgment of all competent judges, including Yamagata himself. For at this first test the commoner army of Yamagata's creation was called upon to face the veterans of the speech of the emperor, which was under the command of the great Saigo. Saigo was by far the greatest military genius Japan had produced in many a hundred years—the commander and worshiped as a god, and the idolized commander under whom Yamagata himself had fought at the battle of Fushimi.

But the test came and the newly trained army of Yamagata after the European system came out of it victorious.

It is this army of his own creation which he often used in his own personal command—that backed the way for Nippon through mosebacked Chinese arrogance, through European contempt, over the fields of Manchuria and Korea, that might take her place as one of the "Big Five" at Paris in 1919 and as one of the "Big Three" at Washington.

End of the Day of the Sword.
But the most important, the most interesting thing about Prince Yamagata's life is not his army. It is not what he achieved as the most powerful Elder Statesman of Japan. It is precisely in the passing of these two things: His army and the political institution of which he was the crowning power.

The militant Japan has not passed into the shadows with Prince Yamagata. But the plenary session of the Washington conference told the whole world of the beginning of its end.

But there is not a single solitary mortal on step into the wooden clogs of the late Prince, just as there was no mortal Japanese who could take the place of the late Prince Ito when he fell at the Korean assassin's hand at Harbin some years back. Just as there is no candidate for the position filled by the late Marquis Okuma.

There is another reason more compelling: The days of the few lordling it over the many is gone in Japan. The pendulum swing of democratic movement—moving especially in political Japan—is traveling far into the outer extreme.

That, then, is the reason why neither the Privy Council nor the House of Peers, the two bodies of men in Japan can ever hope to recall the sun of the magic regime of the Elder Statesmen from below the horizon. It is gone. It is by no means a potent political factor for a country like Japan. A great, providence-favored land like the United States can make a thousand blunders and wax strong and prosperous in spite of its blunders.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 6.—Republican State officials are congratulating themselves upon what appears to be a healthy condition of the State treasury, which on Feb. 1 contained in the general revenue fund $7,723,805, as compared with $5,138,446 on Feb. 1, 1921, a gain of more than $1,500,000. They are wondering, however, what the result will be when another February is here to mark the approximate half way mark of this administration.

For approximately $11,000,000 must be paid out of the revenue fund during the remaining months of this year if the appropriations of the various sessions of last Legislature, approved by Gov. Lusk, are met, and tax authorities of the administration anticipate a considerable falling off in the revenue to be collected this year under the special taxes which now make up the bulk of the State's income.

When the outgoing Democratic administration relinquished control of State affairs early in January, 1921, it left $4,901,000 in the revenue fund, which, according to State Treasurer L. D. Thompson, was reduced to $2,548,564 when all the outstanding accounts and deficiencies of the Gardner administration were paid. In addition, approximately $8,000,000 of legislative appropriations were paid during 1921, and yet on Jan. 1, 1922, there remained in the revenue fund $5,138,446.

Year Prosperous for State.
The year 1921, however, was one of unprecedented prosperity in so far as the State's income was concerned. For during its 12 months $4,794,000 was collected under the income tax, nearly $2,000,000 under the corporation franchise tax, $1,472,222 under the inheritance tax, and other taxes in proportion. The State received in 1921, during the year, a total of $26,480,804 and spent in operating the various branches of State government and institutions, $24,126,748, leaving a balance of $2,354,056.

This, added to the balance left in the State Treasury in 1921, by the Gardner administration, $12,449,091, gave a total balance in all funds at the close of business for 1921 of $14,803,156. There is no dissent from the view among State officials that the State's income will be decreased considerably this year, for the rates have been cut on all of the special taxes, as well as upon the general property tax.

WHEN THE SNOW MELTS IN
THE SPRING SKELETONS WILL
STREW THE RUSSIAN STEPPESBones of Starved Men, Women and Children Will Mingle With Those of Cattle and Camels.

By the Associated Press.

UFA, Volga Region, Russia, Jan. 6.—When the snows melt next spring the Russian Steppes will be strewn with skeletons. They will resemble the high grasses of the American cow country in the days when the big cattle outfits had insufficient hay to carry their stock through a hard winter.

But among the skeletons of cattle and camels there will be the bones of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children who fell exhausted in their quest for bread, who lived the simple lives their peasant ancestors lived for centuries and had little conception of the political upheaval which made this famine more terrible than that of 1891.

They wander, and millions of them are still wandering. There is nothing to eat in their homes, so they start on the trek for bread. Some drift westward to the Volga and find death in the typhus-ridden railway centers or among the horrors of refugee camps along the Volga; others start for Turkestan; still others move eastward toward Siberia, the land of gold and wheat which has always been so alluring to the Russian muzik, who hear little of its vastness, its hardships and its heartlessness.

Modern Ways Unknown To Them.
The peasants know nothing of modern ways. They are unable to buy tickets on the railways, unable to get permits to ride on trains burdened with the red army and food for Moscow and Petrograd. When their animals drop dead the families walk on, always hoping there is food over the next knoll.

But the country districts have no grain, or, if peasant families have a small supply, they conceal it in the effort to prolong their own lives until another crop is harvested. In the larger towns there is food for sale at fabulous prices, but the starving refugees gave neither money nor goods to exchange and can only sit down to await death or trudge on until they think of exhaustion.

The bodies that lie along the railways are collected on cars and hauled to centers, where they are piled in frozen snow-covered heaps to await burial. Freezing refugees remove all garments from the dead, so the frozen bodies are nude when the scavengers collect them.

Families Drift Apart.
Families drift apart and wander aimlessly on to their inevitable fate. Human instincts are lost, and they become little better than beasts. The city and town populations are so hardened to suffering that they are little moved by the misery which lies all about them. Death seems more merciful in the country for the refugees; they sink into the white covering of the endless plain and wolves strip their bones.

From Perm and Ekaterinburg, to the Caspian Sea, death is stalking through the Steppes, as well as the flocks, Kalmucks, Kirghiz and Tatars alike are meeting their end with hopelessness and patience begotten of centuries of unequal struggle against political extortion and unfavorable climatic conditions made worse by ignorance of scientific methods of tilling the soil.

American corn will be too late to save many of these wanderers through the Steppes, as well as the families who have elected to make their fight in their villages, remote from the railways, rather than endure the hardships and death their neighbors have suffered along the main lines of transportation.

Entire village populations have died in the provinces east of the Volga, and the animals which survive are so weak it is impossible to get adequate horsepower to deliver food to the thousands of snowbound, destitute settlements far from food stations.

ORDINANCE OF 1856
HELD TO BE INVALID

Opinion Given in Proceedings
Brought to Block Twelfth Street Widening.

A city ordinance of 1856, obligating the city not to open streets in a tract about Twelfth street and Washington avenue, without the written consent of Peter and Jessie Lindell or their legal representatives, was declared void today by Judge Grimm, after an attempt had been made to use it to block the widening of Twelfth street north of Washington.

The city recently filed condemnation proceedings against property on Twelfth street, between Washington and Lucas avenues, as the first block of the proposed widening, which would open the northwest highway to the city limits.

The heirs of Charles H. Peck and the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., representing some of the property owners on the block, filed answers to the condemnation proceedings, stating that the ground was part of the Lindell tract, once owned by Peter and Jessie Lindell and extending between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, Lucas avenue and St. Charles street. The Lindells transferred ground in this tract to the city for street purposes, on condition that the city promise not to do further street work without the written consent of the Lindells or their legal representatives. A city ordinance, committing the city in the matter, was passed.

The objectors to the proposed widening said the city had not obtained the consent of the Lindells or their present representatives to the widening of Twelfth street, and that therefore the city should either observe the conditions laid down or should reconvey the land deeded by the Lindells, and file new condemnation suits affecting it all.

Judge Grimm, overruling this contention, said the State and the city had the power of eminent domain, and that the city had no right to divest itself of that power by ordinance; hence that the ordinance of 1856 was void, and that the Lindells must be presumed to have known it was void.

MISS MAC SWINEY'S RESOLUTION

DUBLIN, Feb. 6.—A resolution offered by Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, at the convention of Women's Sinn Féin Clubs, meeting in the Mansion House here, urging opposition to the treaty and support to the desired Irish Republic, was adopted enthusiastically by the 600 delegates present.

CURRENT FILM PLAYS HAVE FINE QUALITIES

"Ten Nights in a Barroom," "Love's Redemption," "Saturday Night," "Light in the Clearing" on View.

That 60-year-old drama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" which fired one of the first broadsides against the demon, rum, is still a vital play in its film form, on view this week at the Liberty. Its timeliness is a matter for debate, seeing that the demon has been theoretically eliminated, but it is still wonderfully effective. Moist eyes and parched throats predominate among those who see the picture.

The photoplay version is remarkably free from fanatical preaching. In the natural sequence the story is permitted to tell itself, and in the telling it is superior to the original stage version.

The type of saloon shown here is the small town "gin mill," which is more than any other one factor in being the house of sin. It is a place where the gamblers, the professional racketeer and the professional gambler who makes it the medium for his card cheating exploits at the expense of the villagers.

Baby Ivy Ward, a remarkable child actress, has the role of little Mary Morgan, who is struck by lightning in a saloon fight and who dies of the injury. John Lowell has the leading masculine role as Joe Morgan, Mary's father. The scenes depicting the tragedy are followed by a most melodramatic series of events when Joe Morgan goes out to even up scores with the saloon keeper and the gambler. The climax is a thrilling log jam scene in which Morgan is rescued in a novel way from death in swirling rapids.

Good Vehicle for Norma Talmadge. Norma Talmadge has a good vehicle for her talents in "Love's Redemption," the week's bill at the New Grand Central and West End Lyric. The scenes in the first half of this production were made in Jamaica and the tropical settings are beautiful and impressive. Miss Talmadge has the role of "Ginger," a girl of English-Spanish descent, who has been left an orphan on the island. She reforms a drum-drinking English remittance man and when the reforms are complete they marry and go to England.

At this point the story takes a familiar twist—the snubbing of an outsider bride by her husband's relatives in the management of the "wedding" stage long enough to even up scores by exposing a nobleman who has been cheating at cards. Then she packs her things and starts for Jamaica, expecting to find her husband decides that he, too, wants to "get away from it all" and together they start toward the sunset for their little gray home in the West.

"Saturday Night" Richly Mounted. "Saturday Night," a De Mille picture, at the Missouri Theater this week, is an attempt to show that, in the money mania of America, it is unwise for the upper and lower classes to intermarry.

To establish this proposition the author takes four young people, two from each social order, and makes them partners in the management of a business. Each is essential to the other, and each knows the other, or who are selling and trying to hurt each other in any business. After all, the farm and the factory and the miner and the consumer, are so that they must be solved with a bit of just how each is affected.

The best way for men to understand is to sit together and talk, and agree, if possible, on a plan that will be mutually beneficial. We have been employing professional writers as "go between" instead of with the other fellow. It is to the politicians to create anti-understanding between groups of men to maintain his power. The initiatives of organized labor and a conference last week is an indication of this. We would go further, and suggest a conference between agriculture and work toward understanding.

Suppose, for instance, that Iria, a wealthy uncle and guardian should make a bad guess on the stock market, or be involved in bank failure, or succumb in matrimony to a chorus girl—suppose, in short, that she fell victim to any of the treacherous calamities which beset the rich in America. On the other hand, suppose that the laundress should be revealed as the long-sought heiress to an Irish baron, thus coming at once into property and title. How quickly would the characters then readjust themselves to their new stations?

The picture is richly mounted; the cast, while not outstanding, is beautiful and many finely acted episodes in "The Light in the Clearing" are a feature production with an all-star cast at the Delmar and Criterion theaters. This is based on a story by Irving Bacheller and the scenario was written by William R. Lighten, a former St. Louis newspaperman. Among the players of high reputation in the cast are Eugene Bessener, Clara Horton, Edward Rotherham, George Mackathorne, Frank Leigh, Andrew Arbuckle and John Roskelley.

The story has an unusual situation in which a youth, turned out of his home by his miserly father, commits a murder for the purpose of robbery, not knowing that the man he kills is his own half-brother. Eugene Bessener is cast as the demoted mother of this half-brother. Wronged and slighted by the miser, she has hunted him down for years. Through the solving of the murder mystery and the slow working of justice the scales are balanced in the end so that even the mind-wrecked "Roving Kate" finds a measure of happiness. The acting of John Roskelley as the upright lawyer, Joe Wright, is one of the finest characterizations seen recently in the movies.

N. Y. APPLAUDS UNIQUE
RUSSIAN PERFORMANCE

Quick Triumph for Entertainment, Most Unusual Ever Presented Here, Is Predicted.

By Leased Wire to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—New York has not had at any time in its theatrical history an event quite comparable with the Russian performance at the Theatre de la Chauve-Souris, otherwise the Russian Theatre. For nothing in this country has ever presented so completely the unique entertainment which on Saturday night came to the Forty-ninth Street Theatre, must be accepted as a masterpiece of the stage. The performance of this unique stage has ever presented so completely the unique entertainment which on Saturday night came to the Forty-ninth Street Theatre, must be accepted as a masterpiece of the stage.

The quick triumph in Paris over a year ago of the amazing Russian company of actors, singers, dancers and caricaturists, and in London more recently, is sure to be repeated here. All New York will want to see them, and will marvel at their performance of these visitors is like a difficult. Roughly described, it is something akin to vaudeville, but it is immeasurably more than that. In the opening number there are 13 numbers, though Balloff's repertoire is said to include 120. Each in itself in design and execution, whether serious or grotesque, is a miniature masterpiece, a perfect work of art. The blend of decorative detail with the performances of the actors and singers is of the rarest beauty and effectiveness. In mood the performance is generally humorous; more than half of it is in the vein of delightful grotesquery.

Balloff Is Director. Balloff, its creator, acts as a sort of master of ceremonies. A rare personality he is, this serious, serious little man with twinkling eyes who speaks English that is scarcely intelligible. His humorous description of each act before the curtain—he is a comedian of no mean ability—on Saturday night established just the right intimacy between the performers and the pleased but somewhat mystified audience.

If you attempt to analyze the peculiar artistic satisfaction that you derive from this disconnected show you will find that it lies largely in the visual effects of the backgrounds and costumes and in subtle lighting, although each of the 20 members of the company is a finished artist. To this extent H. Soudeikine and Nicholas Kemisoff, who created these accessories in the school of "Impressionism," are the greatest artists of all. No such striking effects of color and design have been seen before on our stage. They establish at once the atmosphere and the mood for each successive scene.

In one of these scenes the porcelain figures on an ancient clock come to life and the music of an old French song lives again in the days of romance. A lover's feast for the eye is hardly conceivable. Again, a company of rigid wooden soldiers, like a child's toy, go through a mechanical drill in the most perfect manner. The most striking feature of all things like human beings. Thus does Balloff achieve the contrast between extremes and immobility and plasticity.

"Katinka" Is Gem. For sheer grotesquerie heightened by the effects of costume, "Katinka" is one of the gems of the bill. Three figures of an old Russian musical box come to life. The daughters, in a naïf, quaint, song, dance to the accompaniment of a stringed instrument. The scene is a joyful dance, announces to her pleased Russian peasant parents that she has been sought in marriage by a nobleman. For sheer grotesquerie heightened by the effects of costume, "Katinka" is one of the gems of the bill. Three figures of an old Russian musical box come to life. The daughters, in a naïf, quaint, song, dance to the accompaniment of a stringed instrument. The scene is a joyful dance, announces to her pleased Russian peasant parents that she has been sought in marriage by a nobleman. PITTSBURGH MINISTER ACCEPTS
CALL TO ST. LOUIS CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth to become pastor of King's Highway Presbyterian congregation.

The Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth, pastor of Ben Avon Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, has accepted a call to the pastorate of King's Highway Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, according to an announcement made in a dispatch from Pittsburgh. He read his resignation yesterday to his Pittsburgh congregation, with which he has served since his ordination to the ministry in 1903. He is a graduate of Princeton Theological seminary and is a widower with four children.

The Rev. Dr. Frank W. Sneed, new pastor of Washington and Compton Presbyterian Churches, preached the first sermon of his present pastorate there yesterday. He resigned the pastorate there 20 years ago to go to a Pittsburgh church, and he has since served elsewhere in the East.

RED CROSS WORKERS MEET

Southern Illinois Activities Considered at Conference Here. A conference of Red Cross secretaries from Southern Illinois on county chapter activities opened today at Hotel Statler with Glenn S. Kies of Chicago, field representative for Southern Illinois, presiding. About 40 secretaries are attending the sessions, which will conclude tomorrow night.

Speakers at today's meetings were David P. Tilley of Chicago, director post war services, central division, of the Red Cross chapters. Should co-operate with the Veterans' Bureau. W. E. Rominger, manager East St. Louis office United States Veterans' Bureau, on "How the Veterans' Bureau can co-operate with the Red Cross," and Miss Kathryn Howard of Jacksonville, Ill., on "How Secretaries Can Help in the Smaller Hospitals." Dr. J. L. Gilman of Washington, education director of the Red Cross, will speak tomorrow on "Ear Marks of a Good Secretary."

IN GOLDEN GOBLET

Montezuma, luxurious ruler of the ancient Aztecs, lived in a state of great magnificence, yet he drank no other beverage than "chocolate of a delicacy to melt in the mouth."

Fifty jugs were prepared for his daily use, and the beverage was served in golden goblets.

That Montezuma's luxurious living could afford no better drink is the opinion of many at CHILDS.

For best chocolate with cream, as served at CHILDS, is a beverage de luxe.

WOULD SET REGULAR TIME
FOR RECURRENCE OF EASTER

The Rev. Father Martin S. Brennan believes Moon Too Inconstant to Govern the Date.

The Rev. Father Martin S. Brennan, astronomer-priest, believes the moon is too inconstant a sphere to govern the date of Easter in the church calendar. He hopes that the council of astronomers, called by the late Pope Benedict XV to meet in Rome in April to discuss this matter, will decide to "throw out the moon" and set a regular time for the recurrence of Easter.

Under the present rule, fixing Easter as the first Sunday after the first full moon following the vernal equinox, Easter may come anywhere from March 22 to April 25—a range of 34 days. Father Brennan hopes the council of astronomers will recommend to the new Pope either that a fixed date be selected—he suggests April 8—or that a certain Sunday be fixed, such as the second Sunday in April. This year Easter will be April 16.

The invitations to the conference are in the hands of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, and Father Brennan has not learned of any Americans having been invited.

The Heart of a Girl

A Story of Romance and a Business Career in St. Louis
By Caroline Crawford

BILLY BASKS IN THE LIME-LIGHT

WHEN Townley told Peggy that he was going to England for two months, Peggy felt no pang at the temporary separation. Even his ultimatum that she ought to know whether she cared for him or not by the time he returned to St. Louis did not stir her emotions at all. It was not until the morning of his departure, when 18 deep red roses arrived, that a little mist came into her eyes.

It was typical of Harrison Townley to send 18 roses to her on the day he sailed away. Eighteen would suggest his first attentions to her, his first bouquet upon her eighteenth birthday, the first flowers any man had sent to her.

Peggy hovered over those hot-house roses, which were particularly fascinating in the cold winter months. Their fragrance and rich red petals gave promise of summer, of romance, of June and wedding days. Then she read the little card which came with them, and the message, "Will write on the stem," reassured her that she had not lost the "real romance of her life."

That evening as she and Billy rode up on the car from their offices Peggy found herself in a state of

What happened to you today?" asked Billy. "I'll bet you received a rose."

"No, I'm always happy on Tuesdays," giggled Peggy and then she volunteered: "Perhaps it's because that chap who has worried you so much with his yellow rooster has gone to Europe."

"Well, if that accounts for your merriment we'll celebrate," announced Billy. "Ever since my raise I've wanted to take you out to a show and blow you to a real supper afterward. What's the matter with going tonight? We'll take our chances on seats."

"We will celebrate two things," declared Peggy, falling into the evening's plan: "First of all your raise in salary and second the fact that for two months I can do just exactly as I please."

"Gosh, how you must have enjoyed going to the theater and spinning about Saturday afternoons in that guy's car," laughed Billy.

"I always told you it wasn't serious with me. It means much more to my parents."

At 8:30, when the curtain went up at a certain musical comedy Peggy and Billy sat in the fourth row orchestra as happy as two turtle-doves. First balcony seats had been their lot before, but this evening Billy was going to show Peggy that he could play the role of Harrison Townley to a T.

Peggy had been talking to her mother lately and confided the fact that she did not really love Townley, although she appreciated his fine qualities and realized that he would probably be a good match for her.

When she mentioned the fact that Billy was doing so well in the business world and getting $40 a week her mother's attitude changed.

"You'll have to work out your own future," her mother had said, "every girl ought to be allowed the right to select her own husband."

After the show Billy escorted Peggy to one of the most popular and fashionable hotels and they enjoyed what he termed "a regular feed." Between courses they danced, and the spirit of their old school days when they enjoyed frat dances came back to them.

But Billy and Peggy danced one too many dances, and when Peggy unlocked the door of her apartment she found her father and mother both waiting for her.

Her father was inclined to be severe with her and explained that going about with a young man who was an accepted suitor and just a school friend were entirely different

Appetizing "Thrift Dishes"

Baked Apples.

BAKING apples on top of the stove requires less time, hence is an economy in gas. Prepare them in the usual way and put them in a saucepan with a little water and cover tightly. Set them over a small flame—they will bake in a few minutes. Some cooks prefer to peel the apples; in that case they must be carefully watched. It is better to peel them in vertical strips, leaving just enough peel to keep the apple from collapsing.

Cooked Onions.

After peeling and slicing the onions put them in an aluminum saucepan without water. Cover tightly and place over a medium burner turned off little more than half. In 15 minutes season with salt and stir lightly. When done add pepper and milk if desired. No butter is required as there is sufficient oil in the onions. If the family prefer them browned this is readily accomplished by uncovering and stirring.

Things He was about to forbid Billy Bracton the right to come to their home when her mother intervened.

Billy Bracton is a very fine young man," she told her husband. "I have met him several times and quite approve of him. Peggy shall have her girl life and tomorrow we will plan a little dance for her to be given at her home."

(Next—Mother and Daughter.)

SOUTHERN MAPLE CANDY

BOIL in a saucepan two cups of sugar, one cup of maple syrup and a half-cup of sweet cream until a soft ball is formed when a little is tried in cold water. Take from the fire and beat three minutes, adding slowly two cups of pecan nuts. Drop from the end of a tablespoon in round cakes on wax paper to cool, then slip off onto a fancy plate to serve.

over the hot flame, but they are better left white if milk is used. This is a good way to cook onions when time is limited, as it requires only 20 minutes to prepare them.

Chicken Liver Canapés.

Do not throw away the liver, gizzard and heart of the chickens. Cook them until very tender in water to which has been added a little celery, parsley, salt, pepper and rice. The liquid will make a nice soup. Put the liver, gizzard and heart in a smooth paste, season with salt and pepper and spread over hot slices of toast for the Sunday supper.

Liver Hash.

Left over liver will make an appetizing breakfast or luncheon. Chop it fine. Put butter into a pan and when hot add a teaspoonful of chopped onion and fry brown. Add the chopped liver, moisten with a little of liver gravy and cook slowly for 15 minutes. This is nice served on toast or spread between two slices of bread and served with the gravy.

Mocha Chocolate Mousse

SHAVE eight squares of uncoated unsweetened chocolate and add one cupful each of strong strained coffee and rich milk, with an inch stick of cinnamon and three cups of sugar. Cook over hot water and when the chocolate is melted remove from the fire, cool and add four tablespoonfuls of vanilla, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and two quarts of chilled heavy cream whipped solid. Four inch molds with water-tight covers are bury in ice and rock salt for four hours before serving. Serve out in slices and garnished with stain sweetened whipped cream sprinkled with chopped nuts.

The dining rooms of the Government hotels for women in Washington will seat more than 1500 at one time.

THE MERRY JOURNEYS of MARY JANE

All of a sudden she heard someone say in a deep, gruff voice, "Woof! Woof!"

Mary Jane's Adventure with Grizzly George

ONE day Mary Jane went away out in the woods near her house. She was having a lovely time, picking wild strawberries in a clearing among the trees.

All of a sudden she heard someone in a deep, gruff voice say, "Woof! woof!" Mary Jane was awfully scared at first, but when she looked around, she saw it was only Grizzly George, the Bear. George's full name was Pablo Vicidomini—but everybody called him George, for short.

George said, "Mary Jane, don't you know you shouldn't come away out in the woods and eat up all my personal, private strawberries? I was saving these berries for Mrs. George and our two children, Rutherford and Gwendolyn. Your mother can get you lots of strawberries at the grocer's."

Mary Jane told George she was sorry and would never do it again. Then

Mary Jane and Grizzly George got to talking about good things to eat, and Mary Jane told George about how they had Mary Jane Syrup on their pancakes, and spread on bread and everything, up at her house every day. And how you could make the finest fudge you ever tasted in your life out of Mary Jane Syrup.

And then Mary Jane promised George that she would come to visit him and the missus and the children, and she would bring a great big can of Mary Jane Syrup along, so that they could all have a real treat together.

And then Mary Jane shook hands with George and ran all the way home, so as to be there in time for the golden brown biscuits spread with Mary Jane Syrup that her mother had prepared for supper.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

A TRIBUTE TO MODERATION.

It befell in the old days that a mob one night took a negro out of a county jail in Southern Kentucky and carried him just across the line into Tennessee and there hanged him at the roadside. Merely hanging their victim did not satisfy the members of the mob. As he dangled they riddled him with bullets and then kindled a fire under him with intent to destroy the body.

By the light of the mounting flames somebody saw something stirring in a brush pile, close by the scene of execution. He kicked the brush away and dragged out an old colored man, who had been on his way home when he saw the lynchers coming. He had deemed it the part of prudence to take cover immediately. But as luck would have it, he had gone into retirement at the very spot where the mob halted to do its work.

Men poked big guns in his face and swore to take his life if ever he dared reveal what he had that night beheld. The old man protested that the whole thing was purely an affair of the white folks, in which he had neither concern nor interest. All he craved to do was to hurry to his cabin and forget the entire transaction. He was quite sure that by daybreak the following morning all memories of the night would be gone from his mind.

But the leader of the mob felt it incumbent to press the lesson home to the consciousness of the witness. Still casually cooking and uncocking a long pistol he flitted a thumb over his shoulder toward the gallows-tree and said:

"Well, you know that black scoundrel yonder got what he deserved, don't you?"

The old man craned his neck about and gazed for a moment upon the grisly spectacle.

"Boss," he said, fervently, "it looks lak to me he got off mighty Meht."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TOO LATE.

Gov. Miller of New York says that crime is caused by the desire to occupy front seats in life's orchestra.

When told that men are apt to be Garroters, thugs and cheats Because The Show they fain would see From the Expensive Seats, We quit the race for worldly wealth, And took to writing rhyme. We didn't want to risk our health In doing time for crime.

"Far better," so we told ourself, "Plain, honest work to do Than sleep upon an iron shelf, And dine on prison stew. Far better never see the Show And thrills of virtue feel, Than watch the evening sun sink low Through bars of phosphor steel."

But now we read from time to time Of men who fortunes gain, And yet from all the forms of crime Concurrently abstain. Judge Gary, Schwab and old John D. Have piles of gold, and still We notice that they all are true To come and go at will.

These thoughts are full of bitterness: We lack both cakes and ale Who might have made a fair success And still have got out of jail. And we are sure, as is these men We certainly chance, If we could live our lives again We-well, we'd take a chance!

"Ain't no old-folk in this town," remarked a colored laborer as he pitched a shovelful of dirt from one side of the road to the other and stopped to rest awhile. "No old-folk here," said a white laborer, "no old-folk here. All the old folks rased round like young uns and de chillen dun growed up 'Tore day gits start-ed!" After which soliloquy he resumed work, for a few minutes.—Florida Times-Union.
